Furniture shop, S&L to move into food store

A new savings and loan association and an office furniture store will move into the former A&P food store building at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights.

The Illinois Savings and Loan Assn., Villa Park, should be ready to open a branch office in the building within two weeks, Jack B. Whisler of Brian properties, leasing agent, said Wednesday.

A second business, Aaron's Office Furniture, will also occupy the building.

The store has been vacant since May when the A&P company closed it along with several other stores in the area.

FUTURE PLANS to expand the shopping center call for construction of a two-story Illinois Savings and Loan building, the addition of more stores south of the existing building, refacing for the buildings, redesign of the parking lot and landscaping on the property, Whisler said.

Remodeling is going on in the former food store, including installation of a sprinkling system required by village code.

ILLINOIS Savings and Loan has asked the village board to approve a sign variation allowing it to use the former A&P sign. The sign is too large to meet the village's revised sign code.

The board will hear the request at its meeting Monday night.

Plans to add new buildings to the shopping center have not yet been filed with the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

Area digs out from snowstorm

by The Herald Staff

A Thanksgiving eve snowstorm which caused dozens of minor traffic accidents and delayed holiday travelers throughout Illinois and the Midwest was cleared from area highways Thursday as local residents dug out from the season's first major snowstorm.

Six inches of snow was reported by Thursday morning at O'Hare Airport, the National Weather Service said. Heavier snowfall was reported in DuPage County and in southern Cook County.

Area police departments reported many storm-related incidents:

- A Mount Prospect teen-ager was hospitalized late Wednesday after being hurt in a head-on auto accident at Central Road near the Soo Line R.R. tracks in Des Plaines.

Jimmy J. Popoutschank, 16, of 1614 Greenwood Ave., Mount Prospect, was in good condition at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, after treatment for face cuts and a sore left hip.

Jose C. Santos, 22, of 964 W. 18th St., Chicago, was charged with driving too fast for conditions. Des Plaines police said Santos' car crossed into on-coming traffic on Central Road and collided with the car driven by Popoutschank. Santos complained of head, chest and leg pains but refused treatment, police said.

- A Des Plaines patrolman was injured after slipping on ice at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines.

Patrolman Randall Kasper, 29, was reported in good condition at

Downtown redesign report ready

A summary of Village Planner Joe Kesler's proposals to redesign downtown Arlington Heights is available to residents from the village planning department, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The summary report highlights information in five detailed studies prepared for the special committee now studying business district revitalization.

Proposals for downtown parking garages and pedestrian malls are included along with three alternative future designs for the downtown.

THE ALTERNATIVES are for the downtown to remain divided by Northwest Highway, to construct a Northwest Highway bypass in order to unify downtown, or to relocate establishments in the north-side business district to an expanded south-side retail center.

The assessed valuation of Arlington Heights business district now amounts to only 1.3 per cent of the total assessed valuation of the village — an economic statistic prompting new calls for revitalizing the downtown center.

In general, downtown assessed valuation should amount to at least 10 per cent of the community total, according to the report.

The proposals concentrate on improving access to downtown stores, lessening traffic congestion, increasing parking, improving aesthetics and revising restrictive parking ordinances.

'Midnight Madness' sale set Monday

Twenty-one downtown Arlington Heights merchants will participate in a "Midnight Madness" sale, 7 p.m. to midnight Monday.

Shoppers will receive a 10 per cent discount on any purchase made during the sale at participating stores.

There will be hourly drawings for prizes in each store, and a grand prize of a 19-inch color television will be awarded.

Holidays are no time to give up the fight against fat

by GERRY KERN

Thanksgiving is past and the first skirmish in the holiday Battle of the Bulge is over. Two more rounds, Christmas and New Year's remain to be fought.

The enemy silently awaits, brilliant and plentiful. And the sweet smell of defeat, not victory, is almost too much to bear. It's food.

For the 1,000 Chicago area members of Overeaters Anonymous (OA) the holiday season is not so jolly, particularly when it comes to resisting the temptations of the dinner table.

FOR THOSE WHO duel daily with the scales, every pound counts, and Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's are not good enough excuses to indulge. Holidays are just like any other days.

"This is the most difficult time of the year for us," said Carol Wendt, Arlington Heights, president of Overeaters Anonymous. "We can't deviate from our diets, even though it's a holiday."

Those who are serious about losing 10, 50 or 100 pounds of unwanted fat must lead a Spartan existence. Small portions are the order of the day all year long.

No rolls, no butter, no candy, no sweet potatoes, no Christmas cookies — nothing rich and fatty are permitted. Overeaters are just like alcoholics, Ms. Wendt said. Once you give in — even though it's Christmas — the battle may be lost for months afterward.

"THESE ARE THE things which your system craves," she said. "It's easy to rationalize and eat some of these foods, but once you start again it's hard to stop."

Members of the organization keep phone lists of other problem eaters to give each other mutual support durring the holiday seige. Sometimes a phone call and a little confidence building will stem the tide of temptation.

"We tell our people to take it one day at a time," Ms. Wendt said. "Sometimes you just have to take it an hour or five minutes at a time to make it through."

OA does not recommend a particular diet for its members, nor does it enforce dieting. However, it does suggest what should be avoided. One of those things is alcohol, and that makes New Year's most difficult.

OA HAS CHICAGO chapters which range in size from 10 to 40 members each. Ms. Wendt began the program about three years ago after learning about the organization's success in other cities. Chapters meet regularly in Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Glenview, Highland Park, Oak Park, Zion, McHenry and other communities.

The OA procedure is modeled after Alcoholics Anonymous. The only real difference is that food is the problem.

"We all have hang ups," Ms. Wendt said. "Mine is starchy foods. Others have problems with candy."

The first step on the road to losing weight is to admit you're a compulsive overeater, said Ms. Wendt. Once that confession is made, the fight becomes easier.

"We also believe in a serenity prayer," she said. "It's not religious, just the realization that you can't do it all by yourself."

MS. WENDT is a believer in the system. She's lost about 40 pounds.

"I've still got another 60 to take off," she said.

She said the common belief that a fat person is jolly and happy is false. Overeating is spawned of unhappiness. It's an escape.

But if she and others can resist temptation, next year's holiday season may be much happier.

Chicago area, belted by snow, digs itself out

Holy Family Hospital after chipping a vertebrae in the fall, Kasper was at school to obtain a missing person report.

• Three persons were hospitalized after a five-car, rush-hour collision on Palatine Road in Arlington Heights.

Arlington Heights police said an auto driven by Annie P. Bieda, 20, of 1511 N. Windsor, Arlington Heights, slid across the median into westbound traffic about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. Cars driven by Roy L. Rauch, 44, of 639 Peebles, Palatine, and Donald Carpenter, 38, of Kenosha, Wis., collided with the Bieda car.

Cars driven by Anthony J. DeSantis, 41, West Dundee, and Jerome M. Schneider, 30, 5001 Carriageway, Rolling Meadows, crashed into Rauch's auto, police said.

Ms. Bieda was charged with driving on the wrong side of a road by Arlington Heights police.

Treated and released at Northwest Community Hospital were Ms. Bieda for a knee injury and Carpenter for slight head injuries. Brian Bieda, 2, is listed in stable condition after treatment for head injuries.

A SPOKESMAN for Northwest Community Hospital said five persons were treated for injuries after accidents with snowblowers.

At least 15 weather-related deaths were reported Thursday in Illinois. Four persons died in Chicago while removing snow or pushing cars stuck in the snow.

Roads throughout Northern Illinois were cleared by late Thursday for motorists who found tough sledding during the snowstorm. As skies cleared Thursday, hour-long delays in holiday flights at O'Hare Airport ended and schedules returned to normal.

The weather service said the storm, which moved through the Midwest after dumping snow on parts of Texas, provided a Nov. 26 snowfall record with reports of 7.5 inches in some parts of the Chicago area. The snowstorm missed the area record for November — 12 inches — set in 1895.

SNOW AND MORE snow was the message for vacationing school children on Thanksgiving Day. The white blanket covered the Midwest and provided an early season plaything for snowballers and sledders.

Street gangs of the '70s:

'See that little kid? He'd sooner shoot you than not'

by United Press International

Plainclothes policemen Ray Lytle and Ray Ross peered out the window of their unmarked squad car. A group of youths, among them some as young as 10, milled in front of an old dwelling on Chicago's North Side.

It looked like any neighborhood gathering, until Ross said: "Those are street gang members. See that little kid? He'd sooner shoot you than not."

Members of a citywide gang known as the "Gaylords" were spending a typical school day getting their kicks outside the classroom. Some were high on marijuana, some were truant and some may have been resting between nighttime spats with members of the rival "Latin King Nation."

Nighttime spats, nowadays, can mean bloody shootouts in the streets. The gangs have changed from the years of "West Side Story" rumbles with knives and chains.

"It was better then, " said Bob Mason, 20, a past president of the Gaylords, who has seen the change during his six years in the gang.

"Now guys just pull up on a corner, see two or three members of another gang, and start shooting. It's really stupid if you look at it."

Walter B. Miller, an anthropologist at the Harvard law school's center for criminal justice, recently completed a three-year study on street gangs in 12 of the nation's largest cities for the Law Enforcement Administration Agency.

Although Miller concluded that "one of the worst sources of information about street gangs is street gang members," he might agree with Mason's summation.

Gangs still roam the streets of the nation's urban centers. But today they travel in cars and members are armed with sophisticated weaponry — police revolvers, shotguns, homemade bazookas and Molotov cocktails instead of the chains, pipes, knives and zip guns of the '50s and '60s.

Members are as young as 5 and as old as 50. More teen-age girls are joining. Ross shrugged and said, "It's the 'in' thing now to be in a gang."

The gangs are proliferating in spite of scores of government and community action programs designed to curb their activities, which range from the traditional "gang-bangin' " — fights between rival racial groups — to violent crimes vented against the public.

On a given day in most major cities, gang members can be seen mingling on a street corner, a front lawn or in a school yard, "stylin' " their embroidered $50 sweaters or just "representin' " their gang.

Information about youth gangs is elusive, but Miller estimated there are between 28,450 and 81,500 members in the nation's six larges metropolitan areas alone. In those cities, he said there are between 760 and 2,700 gangs.

The Gaylord, Mason said simply, are: "very prejudiced people. We don't want niggers or Puerto Ricans living in our neighborhood."

Sgt. Craig Collins of New York's Bronx gang intelligence unit said the poor and underprivileged use gangs for "status and recognition," others form gangs "for protection against either real or imaginary threats," and still more gangs are organized just for adventure, often expanding because of media publicity.

"It's only a matter of time, though, and they all take on the same identity of aggression and criminality," Collins said.

Most of the larger gangs boast a sophisticated organization which stretches down to the 9 and 10-year-old peewees, up to the midgets, juniors and full-fledged members.

"The peewees don't get to vote at the meeting, but they play the game," Ross explained. "They carry the guns, the dope. The older members are making money off these kids, selling 'em guns, sweaters, drugs and spray cans of paint."

Investigator Tim Dunmore, an expert on Chicago's gangs said most members were recruited into the gang or join for protection, and "the smaller percentage are hard-core members."

Miller may agree, but he cautioned: "By and large, expect the police to underplay the gang problem, because the seriousness of the gang problem is a reflection on the efficiency of the police department."

Police openly admit their discretion, arguing that gangs thrive on publicity, particularly during the school year when membership soars. But Miller said police tend to shield the public from the problem.

For example, he said, "there is gang violence in the schools" in almost every major city today.

"Many of the schools have become territorialized," he said. "Gangs are conducting shakedowns, exacting fees from students for walking through the halls — and particularly, for not being beaten up.

"The police are going to deny this. They will say school security is fine. But in every city, there have been gang killings in the school and the use of extortion. There has been extensive intimidation of teachers. The gangs have taken over the classrooms."

When the gangs expand, the public suffers. In cities where gangs are prevalent, the crime rates are high. Many gangs require new recruits to commit a criminal act before they are considered full-fledged members.

And the crimes have become less inhibited. Last May while 125,000 people gathered for Human Kindness Day in Washington, D.C., dozens of small gang wolf packs roamed about, publicly beating and robbing an estimated 600 persons.

Miller's study indicates 38 per cent of the reported gang-related crime in New York City was directed at the public. In Chicago, the figure was 35 per cent. Officials in both cities rated the gang problem of medium seriousness compared with other crime.

On Chicago's North Side, Ross and Lytle watch the gangs fulltime, learning to identify members by their nicknames and seeking information from them when crimes are committed. Both officers are puzzled.

"You've got to wonder what makes them tick," Ross said. "You'll see kids out there that are college kids who come from wealthy families. They'll come out there just to wear a sweater."

"They'll kill over that sweater," said Lytle.

Police said there were 171 street gang killings in Chicago from 1971 to 1974, although the yearly number dropped from 60 to 33. Police recovered more tha 600 guns from gang members in the first nine months of 1975.

Miller said virtually no community programs have been effective in stopping the spread of street gang terrorization. Worse yet, he said government and community organizations aren't even cooperating to solve the problem.

U.N. may stay in Golan Heights: Syria

Syria has decided to let U.N. peacekeeping troops stay on the rocky Golan Heights for another six months, authoritatve sources in Damascus said Thursday. The sources said the last-minute extension in the life of the truce force came during the week's talks between Syrian President Hafez Assad and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim in Damascus.

U.S. energy program hit by agency

The International Energy Agency in Paris said Thursday the United States is doing less than any other industrialized Western nation to save energy. The IEA, set up at Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's request a year ago to deal with the energy crisis, gave America the poorest rating among 17 of the West's leading industrialized states.

"The American program must overcome an extremely high per capita historical energy consumption pattern and as such must be comprehensive and strong to be effective," an IEA report said. "At the present time, it is neither."

Spaniards cheer, jeer in Madrid

More than 100,000 flag-waving Spaniards cheered the rebirth of the Spanish monarch Thursday, but police used tear gas to drive off thousands of others demanding the release of political prisoners. A giant crowd shouting "Long live the king!" filled the plaza in front of the royal palace for ceremonies honoring the five-day-old reign of King Juan Carlos I. But on the outskirts of Madrid, police used water cannon and tear gas to disperse thousands of persons demanding the release of all of Spain's 2,000 political prisoners.

Snoopy loses hot air in Macy's parade

Santa Claus wore a raincoat, Snoopy had an accident, and wind and rain whipped New York's annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade. But the bands played on. Snoopy, a five-story, helium-filled balloon in the likeness of the cartoon beagle, got away from 40 handlers at 73rd Street because of the wind and smashed into some trees. They tried to get the rubber dog back in the parade but could not, so it had to be deflated.

Big Tujunga fire nearly controled

A soft drizzle fell on the flame-ravaged California's San Gabriel mountains Thursday and helped weary fire fighters bring under control the biggest of the blazes which had blackened 100 square miles in five days and cuased more than $14 million damage. The rain which began during the night tamped down the embers in the brush and the U.S. Forest Service reported that the Big Tujunga Canyon fire was 95 per cent contained and expected to be under full control soon.

Live bomb found on jet in Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — A maintenance man stumbled over a live timebomb in a jetliner restroom just before the plane was to begin boarding passengers Thursday. Explosives experts disarmed it before it could explode.

"If it had gone off, it would have taken the whole plane," an investigator said. "The plane was completely loaded with fuel."

An hour and a half after the bomb was discovered at 8:45 a.m., a man identifying himself as "Ernesto" of "Cuban Power 76" called United Press International's Miami Bureau and said he had planted the explosive device aboard the BahamasAir BAC-111.

He said the bombing attempt was to protest the ban of Cuban exile fishermen from Bahamas' waters and of the relationship between the Bahamas and Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba.

Coral Gables police said another explosive device, a pipe bomb, was found at a University of Miami apartment complex at about the same time. Police said they did not know if the two incidents were related. Police said BahamasAir maintenance supervisor James F. O'Conner was repairing some plumbing when he discovered a "suspicious package" behind some paneling in a restroom.

The 41 passengers who were waiting to board were kept in the waiting room, the crew was taken off the plane and the Dade County Bomb Squad was called.

The small jetliner was then towed to what is called a "penalty box," an isolated area in the middle of the airport complex which is used in such situations.

Bomb squad member Newton Porter disarmed the bomb, which investigators said consisted of two pounds of plastic explosive attached to a watch and a detonating device.

The man who called UPI said he planned to plant other bombs and would issue warnings before they exploded.

He said he wanted to discourage travel to the Bahamas because of that government's relations with Cuba.

Quick OK of N.Y. rescue plan seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is expected to begin work quickly next week on President Ford's plan for up to $2.3 billion a year in federal loans for New York City under tight stipulations the money be paid back annually with interest.

Democratic congressional leaders, unable to pass their own loan guarantee proposal without Ford's support, are likely to embrace the President's month-to-month loan plan when the Thanksgiving recess ends Mnday.

New York City, meanwhile, still faces the prospect of more service cutbacks, taxes and job eliminations despite Ford's promise of federal loans, local officials emphasized.

Mayor Abraham Beame said he believed the short-term federal loans would enable the city to avoid formal default, but he stressed that those monies will simply ease the city's cash flow crisis and in no way affect the austerities needed to balance a $724 million budget gap.

"There is a grateful sigh of relief, but it's a cautious one," one mayoral aide said.

"I want to stress that the president's action — as crucial as it may be — does not bring our serious difficulties to an end," Beame said.

City expenditures are spread out more or less evenly throughout the fiscal year, but its income comes in lumps with most of the revenue expected in the spring. It was this disparity that helped bring New York to the brink of bankruptcy.

President Ford said it is the problem of "day-to-day operating expenses" that his "seasonal financing act" is designed to help counteract.

Under state law, Beame still is required to bring the city's budget in balance within three years. To do so, he must impose cuts of about $270 million in each of the next two fiscal years on top of the cuts already made.

The price in terms of services, stalled capital construction and reduced manpower has been severe. Of a total city payroll of slightly more than 300,000, some 31,000 jobs have been eliminated.

'Squeaky's' attorney will file for appeal

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The defense attorney for Lynette Fromme will appeal her conviction for the attempted assassination of President Ford.

John E. Virga said following the conviction of the fanatic follower of mass murderer Charles Manson that the decision by the eight-woman, four-man jury will be taken to a higher court as soon as possible.

"Very candidly I'm surprised at the decision," Virga said, adding he thought the jury would convict Miss Fromme, 27, of a lesser assault charge. "But I'm sure they acted in good faith."

Virga said he would file notice of the appeal, which will be based on grounds the prosecution suppressed evidence crucial to the defense, but another lawyer specializing in appelate matters will then take over the case.

The jurors deliberated for more than 19 hours over 2½ days before deciding Wednesday night the red-haired defendant intended to kill Ford when she pointed a loaded .45-caliber pistol at him as he walked through the state Capitol park Sept. 5. They refused to be interviewed by reporters, and were kept in seclusion until they returned home.

Street gangs of the '70s:

St. Zachary students— a rugged bunch of athletes

The best elementary school athletes in the state don't even have their own gym.

No, St. Zachary Catholic School students in Des Plaines don't have fancy equipment, but this is the second year in a row they have been state champions in the Presidential Physical Fitness Awards competition. The state champion award is given to the school with the highest percentage of students qualifying for the Presidential Physical Fitness Award.

To receive the award, a student must score above the 85th percentile on each of six tests. Seventy-eight of the 168 St. Zachary students who took the fitness tests last year scored better than the 85th percentile, said Straten Barrettsmith, St. Zachary physical education teacher.

HOW DO THE students score so well?

"The kids are very enthusiastic," said Barrettsmith, who is on sabbatical this year, completing a master's degree at Western Illinois University, Macomb. Students use an improvised gym made from two classrooms at St. Zachary, but about 30 students come early and stay late to train at a nearby public school gymnasium, Barrettsmith said.

"Our whole physical education program is built on fitness," he explained. "If a child is physically fit he can be taught to do anything."

St. Zachary's physical education program makes no concessions to a lack of facilities. The students participate in some 14 sports, dance, and exercise programs, Barrettsmith said. "Everything is organized towards fitness and endurance," he said.

Auto showroom gains approval of plan panel

Plans for a new automobile showroom at Dundee Road and Ridge Avenue for Sullivan Pontiac, Arlington Heights, have been approved by the village plan commission.

The auto dealer plans to move from his location at 666 E. Northwest Hwy. by July if the village board goes along with the plan commission recommendation to rezone the Dundee Road site.

The existing showroom is too small, said William Sullivan, dealership owner.

Three of the four acres planned for the new showroom already are zoned for an auto dealership. The fourth acre must be rezoned from its present manufacturing classification.

Sullivan Pontiac will become the third auto dealership on Dundee Road between Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove. The other two are Grand Spaulding Dodge, 935 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove, and Chalet Ford, 801 W. Dundee Rd., Arlington Heights.

Dundee Road is a good location for auto sales, said Village Planner Joe Kesler. Automobile dealers are an important contributor to the village's sales tax income.

With the new showroom, Sullivan said he hopes to sell 900 new cars annually, an increase of 200.

The plan commission's unanimous recommendation to approve the necessary rezoning will be forwarded to the village board for final action.

LET'S ALL GIVE THANKS!

Many years ago the first settlers on this continent joined with the native Indians to give their thanks for the harvest of food which they shared. They also gave thanks for just being alive although disease and lack of medicines were common occurrences.

Today most of the diseases that were prevalent at that time have been conquered, and it would certainly be appropriate, as we continue the tradition of Thanksgiving, to express our gratitude for the good health we enjoy. It would also be appropriate for us to express our thanks to all of you for giving us the opportunity and responsibility of taking care of your pharmacy needs.

Family problems on their minds

Grandfolks, mom and pop turn to hotlines for help

by LINDA PUNCH
and LYNN ASINOF

Five years ago the typical hotline caller was a teen-ager with drug or social problems. Today, the caller is just as likely to be that teen-ager's parents or grandparents.

"One of the main reasons we started a hotline was the drug problems. Now drug calls are way down. We get more family problem-type of calls — parents saying they can't handle their children," said Lu Wilson, director of the Omni-House Hotline, which serves Wheeling Township.

The Regional Youth Services Bureau in Elk Grove Township's Talkline also is receiving fewer crisis oriented calls, Peg Herman, executive director of the bureau, said. She said calls now deal mainly with peer problems or family troubles. The Talkline serves Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships.

"I CAN SEE A move from the crisis center-type calls to a more sophisticated use of the hotline. People are beginning to call when they begin to sense they need help," she said.

Mrs. Herman said people are more aware of the agencies available to them and that asking for help has become more acceptable.

"People are becoming more sophisticated in thinking it's all right to ask for help. It's more 'OK,' " she said.

Mrs. Herman said most of the callers are between ages 14 and 25, but there also is "a high preponderance" of calls from older adults.

MRS. WILSON said Omni-House has received many calls from elderly people who have "no definite problem but just want someone to talk to."

"We never had calls like that before," she said.

At least half of the volunteers manning the phones at Omni-House Hotline Center are under the age of 23, but Ms. Wilson said these young people "work out quite well" in dealing with parents who call in.

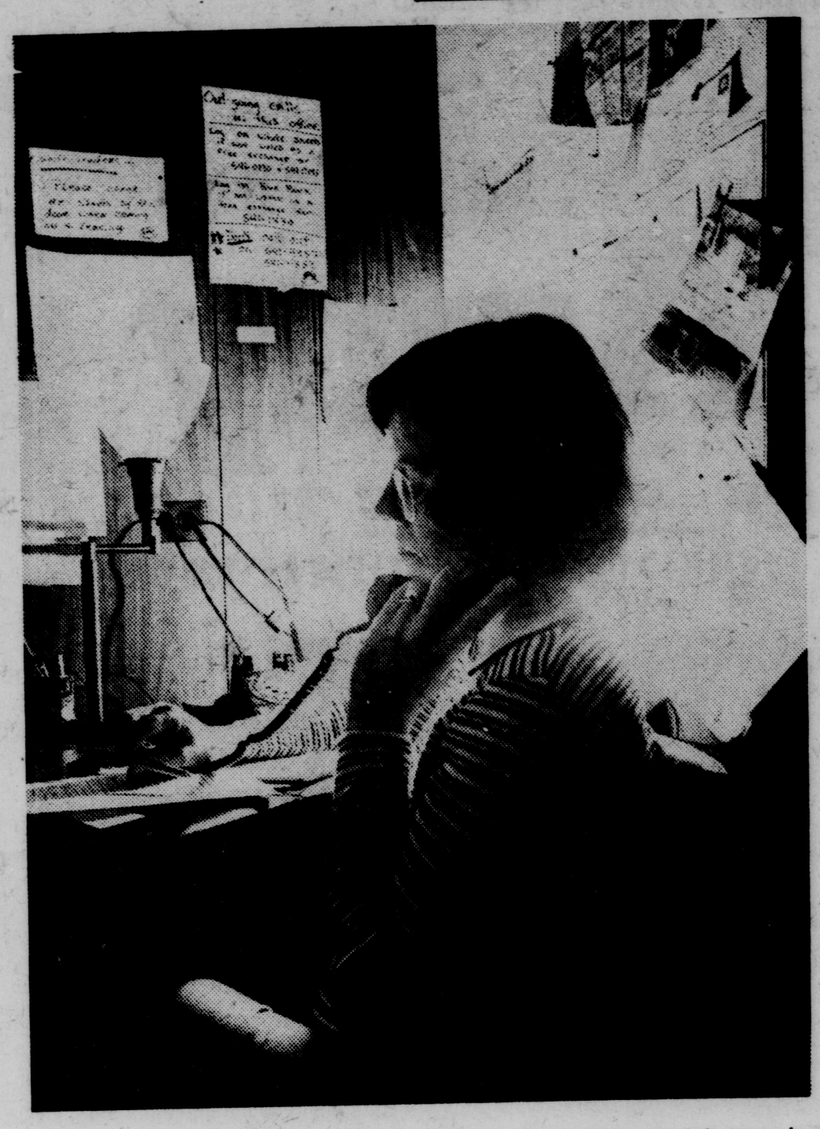
"The parent is obviously having trouble talking to his own child, so it helps to talk it over with another young person," she said.

The Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays are a busy time for most hotlines since many "People have conflicts because they are not happy and society says they should be happy," Mrs. Herman said.

"THIS IS THE time of year people get more depressed and do more crazy things. A certain segment of the population comes out of the woodwork from early December to February," she said.

The Omni-House Hotline is open from 7 to 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 8 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday. The number is 541-HELP.

The Talkline number is 358-TALK. Hours are from 2 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.



HOTLINE VOLUNTEERS are handling fewer crisis oriented calls than in the past, according to local hotline directors.

rage between Vail and Dunton avenues south of Campbell Street and a one-block Pedestrian Mall have been proposed as a starting point.

A special taxing district that would tax downtown businesses, and money from the village parking system are proposed to finance construction of the garage. A small addition to the village real estate tax that would cost an average home owner about $3.50 a year also is suggested.

The summary report concludes that "a new, functional and aesthetically pleasing downtown is a real possibility in Arlington Heights" if three conditions are met. They are:

- Cooperation between merchants, property owners and village officials.
- Community willingness to invest money in long-range redevelopment measures in anticipation of higher assessed valuation, increased sales tax and additional employment.
- A decision by residents to shop in the central business district as much as possible.

Business promotions, appointments

Robert C. Bates, a resident of Arlington Heights, was recently elected president of Hull House Assn.

Bates is senior vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust Co. and executive vice president of the Chicago Title Insurance Co.

He attended the University of Missouri at Columbia and received a J.D. degree in 1950 from the School of Law of the University of Missouri at Kansas City. In 1969 he was elected senior vice president of Chicago Title and Trust Co.

Bates is chairman of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. Liaison Committee of the American Land Title Assn. and a member of the ALTA Liaison Committee with the United States League of Savings Associations. He has served on the Board of Governors of ALTA and is a member of the Federal Legislative Action Committee. He is a member of the Union League Club of Chicago, The Executives' Club of Chicago, and the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry. He is a former member of the Arlington Heights Board of Education and past-President of the Parent-Teacher Council, Prospect High School.

Zelmo P. Ishee, Arlington Heights, has been appointed vice president/sales for Northern Electric Co. of Chicago. His new responsibilities will include total direction of field sales force activities.

Ishee, who formerly served as national sales manager, will also supervise company relations with a major national chain.

Richard G. Norris of Arlington Heights has been named legislative planning coordinator for Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

Before joining Standard, he served as attorney for the Dept. of Insurance and Securities Division of the State of Illinois in Springfield and as State's Attorney, Morgan County, Ill.

A native of Jacksonville, Ill., Norris received his bachelor's degree from Illinois College in Jacksonville and his J.D. from Creighton University, Omaha, Neb.

He is a member of the American Bar Assn., the Illinois and Nebraska State Bar associations and the American Judicature Society.

Consultants hired for flood bond sale

Paul D. Speer & Associates, financial consultants, have been hired to market a $3.5 million general obligation bond issue for the Village of Arlington Heights.

The bond sale will be used to finance flood control projects.

Speer will receive a $9,600 fee for its work which may include an application to upgrade the village's bond rating. A better bond rating would result in lower interest costs.

Village officials interviewed three financial consulting firms before selecting Speer.

Girl's essay a winner

An essay on the American Bicentennial, written by Gina Harlow of Arlington Heights, will be broadcast on WBBM radio.

Miss Harlow, a student at Greenbrier School, was a finalist in the essay contest sponsored by Illinois Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett, on the theme, "What is the Spirit of '76?"

The essay will be broadcast at 12:56 p.m. Saturday and at 2:53 a.m. Sunday on WBBM-AM 780.

Party Dec. 14 for McDougall

Family problems on their minds

Grandfolks, mom and pop turn to hotlines for help

by LINDA PUNCH
and LYNN ASINOF

Five years ago the typical hotline caller was a teen-ager with drug or social problems. Today, the caller is just as likely to be that teen-ager's parents or grandparents.

"One of the main reasons we started a hotline was the drug problems. Now drug calls are way down. We get more family problem-type of calls — parents saying they can't handle their children," said Lu Wilson, director of the Omni-House Hotline, which serves Wheeling Township.

The Regional Youth Services Bureau in Elk Grove Township's Talkline also is receiving fewer crisis oriented calls, Peg Herman, executive director of the bureau, said. She said calls now deal mainly with peer problems or family troubles. The Talkline serves Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships.

"I CAN SEE A move from the crisis center-type calls to a more sophisticated use of the hotline. People are beginning to call when they begin to sense they need help," she said.

Mrs. Herman said people are more aware of the agencies available to them and that asking for help has become more acceptable.

"People are becoming more sophisticated in thinking it's all right to ask for help. It's more 'OK,' " she said.

Mrs. Herman said most of the callers are between ages 14 and 25, but there also is "a high preponderance" of calls from older adults.

MRS. WILSON said Omni-House has received many calls from elderly people who have "no definite problem but just want someone to talk to."

"We never had calls like that before," she said.

At least half of the volunteers manning the phones at Omni-House Hotline Center are under the age of 23, but Ms. Wilson said these young people "work out quite well" in dealing with parents who call in.

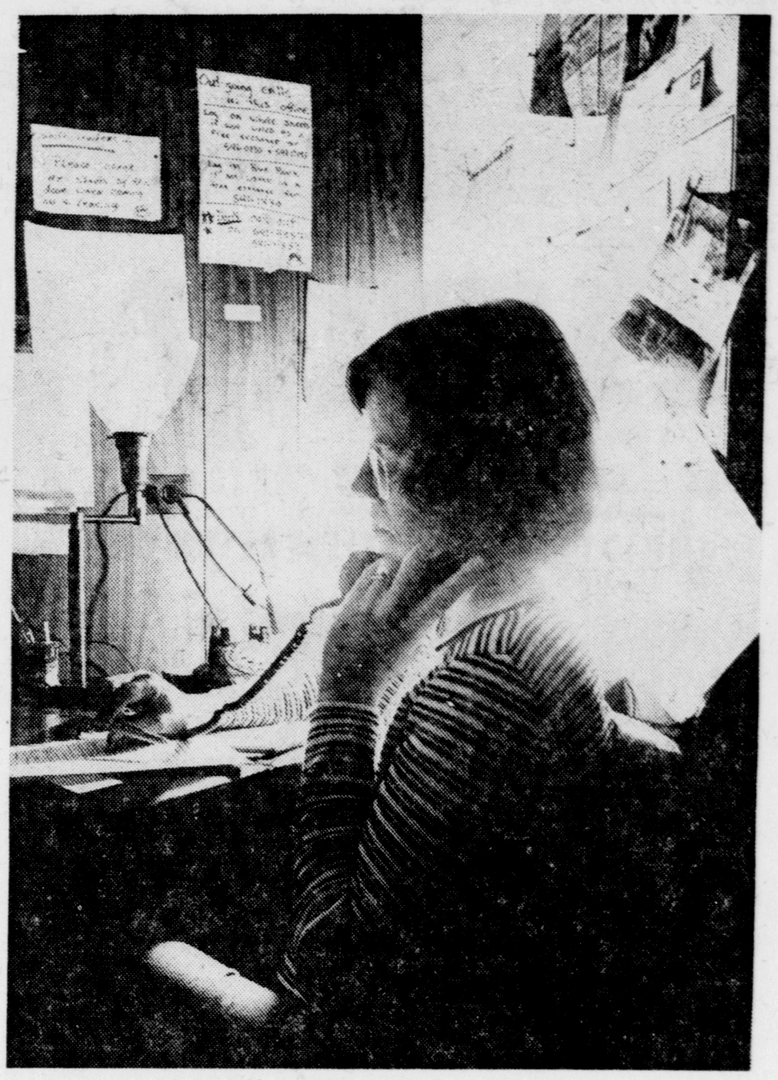
"The parent is obviously having trouble talking to his own child, so it helps to talk it over with another young person," she said.

The Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays are a busy time for most hotlines since many "People have conflicts because they are not happy and society says they should be happy," Mrs. Herman said.

"THIS IS THE time of year people get more depressed and do more crazy things. A certain segment of the population comes out of the woodwork from early December to February," she said.

The Omni-House Hotline is open from 7 to 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 8 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday. The number is 541-HELP.

The Talkline number is 358-TALK. Hours are from 2 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.



HOTLINE VOLUNTEERS are handling fewer crisis oriented calls than in the past, according to local hotline directors.

rage between Vail and Dunton avenues south of Campbell Street and a one-block Pedestrian Mall have been proposed as a starting point.

A special taxing district that would tax downtown businesses, and money from the village parking system are proposed to finance construction of the garage. A small addition to the village real estate tax that would cost an average home owner about $3.50 a year also is suggested.

The summary report concludes that "a new, functional and aesthetically pleasing downtown is a real possibility in Arlington Heights" if three conditions are met. They are:

- Cooperation between merchants, property owners and village officials.
- Community willingness to invest money in long-range redevelopment measures in anticipation of higher assessed valuation, increased sales tax and additional employment.
- A decision by residents to shop in the central business district as much as possible.

Business promotions, appointments

Robert C. Bates, a resident of Arlington Heights, was recently elected president of Hull House Assn.

Bates is senior vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust Co. and executive vice president of the Chicago Title Insurance Co.

He attended the University of Missouri at Columbia and received a J.D. degree in 1950 from the School of Law of the University of Missouri at Kansas City. In 1969 he was elected senior vice president of Chicago Title and Trust Co.

Bates is chairman of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. Liaison Committee of the American Land Title Assn. and a member of the ALTA Liaison Committee with the United States League of Savings Associations. He has served on the Board of Governors of ALTA and is a member of the Federal Legislative Action Committee. He is a member of the Union League Club of Chicago, The Executives' Club of Chicago, and the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry. He is a former member of the Arlington Heights Board of Education and past-President of the Parent-Teacher Council, Prospect High School.

Zelmo P. Ishee, Arlington Heights, has been appointed vice president/sales for Northern Electric Co. of Chicago. His new responsibilities will include total direction of field sales force activities.

Ishee, who formerly served as national sales manager, will also supervise company relations with a major national chain.

Richard G. Norris of Arlington Heights has been named legislative planning coordinator for Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

Before joining Standard, he served as attorney for the Dept. of Insurance and Securities Division of the State of Illinois in Springfield and as State's Attorney, Morgan County, Ill.

A native of Jacksonville, Ill., Norris received his bachelor's degree from Illinois College in Jacksonville and his J.D. from Creighton University, Omaha, Neb.

He is a member of the American Bar Assn., the Illinois and Nebraska State Bar associations and the American Judicature Society.

Consultants hired for flood bond sale

Paul D. Speer & Associates, financial consultants, have been hired to market a $3.5 million general obligation bond issue for the Village of Arlington Heights.

The bond sale will be used to finance flood control projects.

Speer will receive a $9,600 fee for its work which may include an application to upgrade the village's bond rating. A better bond rating would result in lower interest costs.

Village officials interviewed three financial consulting firms before selecting Speer.

Girl's essay a winner

An essay on the American Bicentennial, written by Gina Harlow of Arlington Heights, will be broadcast on WBBM radio.

Miss Harlow, a student at Greenbrier School, was a finalist in the essay contest sponsored by Illinois Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett, on the theme, "What is the Spirit of '76?"

The essay will be broadcast at 12:56 p.m. Saturday and at 2:53 a.m. Sunday on WBBM-AM 780.

Party Dec. 14 for McDougall

Arlington Heights police are sponsoring a retirement party Dec. 14 for Capt. Irvin McDougall, who leaves the department Jan. 1 to become police chief in Mendota, Ill.

McDougall, a 25-year veteran of the department, will be honored at the party starting at 7 p.m. at the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel.

Tickets are $15 per person. Cocktails are from 7 to 8 p.m. Dinner begins at 8 p.m., and a band will perform until midnight.

For ticket information, contact Sgt. Jack Weber at 253-2340, ext. 254.

SIGN OF THE TIMES. As battle for control of the remaining land at the Arlington Heights Nike Base winds down, local citizens erected a sign thanking the Army for turning over 90 acres for recreational use. The district plans to build a golf course.

Area businessmen on the move...

Four Arlington Heights residents have been elected vice presidents of Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago.

James M. O'Keane, 358 S. Newbury Pl., and James M. Voss, 621 S. Lincoln St., were named vice presidents in the commercial banking department.

Theodore C. Kauss Jr., 511 S. Dwyer St., was named a vice president in the trust department, and Stephen W. Scheetz, 534 S. Roosevelt St., was named a second vice president in the commercial banking department.

O'Keane and Voss were promoted from second vice presidents. O'Keane received both bachelor's (1967) and master's (1968) degrees from the University of Wisconsin. Voss received a degree in 1964 from Northwestern University, and in 1965 received a masters degree, also from Northwestern.

Kauss was promoted from second vice president. He is a graduate of Loyola University, where he received a bachelor's degree in 1963, and Northwestern University, where he received a master's degree in 1967.

Scheetz was promoted from commercial banking officer. He attended Dartmouth College's Amos Tuck School of Business and received a bachelor's degree in 1965 from Lake Forest College.

The Rust-oleum Corp. recently announced the appointment of John J. Vece of Arlington Heights, to the position of senior manager-systems and procedures.

Vece has been with Rust-Oleum since 1972. Prior to that he was general manager of Hallmark Data Systems.

David N. Woodyatt of Arlington Heights, was named vice president, trust department, at the Harris Bank, Chicago.

Woodyatt received a bachelor's degree from Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania in 1965 and an M.B.A. from Northwestern University in 1966, when he joined Harris Bank in the financial and economic research department.

Blaine J. Yarrington, 715 S. Salem Ave., Arlington Heights, executive vice president, Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) was recently awarded the honorary doctor of business administration by North Central College, Naperville.

Richard C. McIntyre, 245 Maude Ave., Arlington Heights, was recently presented with a service pin in recognition of his 25th anniversary with the Allstate Insurance Companies.

McIntyre is a senior claim adjuster in the firm's Northwest Metro district claim office, 4301 W. Touhy Ave., Lincolnwood.

Norman H. Gallagher, 208 S. Rammer, Arlington Heights, was recently presented with a service pin in recognition of his 20th anniversary with the Allstate Insurance Compnies.

Gallagher is a senior account agent in the firm's Illinois regional sales office, 7770 Frontage Rd., Skokie.

Kenneth K. Schroeder FIC, 219 S. Pine, Arlington Heights, district representative in this area for Aid Assn. for Lutherans (AAL), was among the top five per cent of AAL's total field force of more than 1,000 during agency year 1974. His outstanding achievements in sales and service to members qualified him for the Society's President's Cabinet.

James L. Dutt of Arlington Heights has been promoted to president of international food operations for Beatrice Foods Co.

Dutt began his career with Beatrice Foods in 1947 in the office of the Topeka, Kans., dairy plant on a part-time basis while attending Washburn University. In 1950, he was transferred to the Chicago State Street plant and advanced to office manager. He was promoted to the general office in 1953.

Promotion of George E. Leonard Jr., to the position of vice president in the corporate banking department of The First National Bank of Chicago was announced recently by chairman Gaylord Freeman.

Leonard, a resident of Arlington Heights, who was promoted from the position of assistant vice president, heads the west division of the department's metropolitan group. He joined the bank in 1970, was elected a loan officer in 1972 and was promoted to assistant vice president in 1973.

Peter Damiani, Damiani Plywood and Lumber Co., Arlington Heights, has been named Greater Chicagoland distributor for Consumer Ecology Products' "Water Guard."

Norman Skelton, corporate manager of staffing and recruitment at Motorola Inc., has been reelected president of the Employment Management Assn., a nonprofit organization serving as a forum for the better understanding and solving of employment problems facing American business.

Skelton of Arlington Heights, joined Motorola in December 1966 as manager of recruiting for the semiconductor products division in Phoenix, Ariz., and was promoted to his current position in August 1973.

Norman Swenson asks clemency

Norman Swenson, president of the Cook County College Teachers Union, has asked Gov. Daniel Walker for executive clemency in an attempt to end his five-month jail sentence. Swenson was sentenced Sept. 9 for violating a back-to-work order during the Chicago teachers' strike. He has served eight days of the sentence under a work release program, then was freed pending his appeal of the conviction.

Swenson's attorney, Gilbert Feldmann, Wednesday filed the petition in which Swenson asked that his position as an educator be considered in granting the clemency. The petition also said Swenson is the only educator in Illinois sentenced, even though several union members disobeyed similar court orders.

The Illinois Pardon and Parole Board will consider the request in January.

Illinois briefs

Suit law illegal

Circuit Court Judge David Canel has ruled that Illinois' law limiting medical malpractice suits to $500000 in damages is discriminatory and therefore unconstitutional.

In a ruling Wednesday, Canel also held unconstitutional a provision in the law setting up a medical review board consisting of a doctor, a lawyer and a judge to screen malpractice suits to determine if they should be brought to trial.

The new law took effect Nov. 13.

Sammie Garrett freed

Sammie Garrett shrugged off nearly six wasted years in prison as a "Frankenstein movie" and settled down Thursday to enjoy Thanksgiving with his son and one of the men who helped him to freedom.

Garrett walked jauntily out of Stateville Correctional Center in Joliet Wednesday night, happily dug his hands into snow drifts and began tossing the white stuff around for a photographer. "I'll do better than that," he said. "I'll pick up the ground."

Three hours earlier Illinois Chief Justice Daniel Ward signed an order releasing Garrett, 26, on a $50,000 personal recognizance bond.

The Illinois Supreme Court overturned Garrett's conviction Tuesday, finally accepting his word that he did not kill Mrs. Karen Thompson, 28, of Park Forest, Ill., in a Chicago Heights motel room Nov. 9, 1969.

Norman Swenson asks clemency

Norman Swenson, president of the Cook County College Teachers Union, has asked Gov. Daniel Walker for executive clemency in an attempt to end his five-month jail sentence. Swenson was sentenced Sept. 9 for violating a back-to-work order during the Chicago teachers' strike. He has served eight days of the sentence under a work release program, then was freed pending his appeal of the conviction.

Swenson's attorney, Gilbert Feldmann, Wednesday filed the petition in which Swenson asked that his position as an educator be considered in granting the clemency. The petition also said Swenson is the only educator in Illinois sentenced, even though several union members disobeyed similar court orders.

The Illinois Pardon and Parole Board will consider the request in January.

Illinois briefs

Suit law illegal

Circuit Court Judge David Canel has ruled that Illinois' law limiting medical malpractice suits to $500000 in damages is discriminatory and therefore unconstitutional.

In a ruling Wednesday, Canel also held unconstitutional a provision in the law setting up a medical review board consisting of a doctor, a lawyer and a judge to screen malpractice suits to determine if they should be brought to trial.

The new law took effect Nov. 13.

Sammie Garrett freed

Sammie Garrett shrugged off nearly six wasted years in prison as a "Frankenstein movie" and settled down Thursday to enjoy Thanksgiving with his son and one of the men who helped him to freedom.

Garrett walked jauntily out of Stateville Correctional Center in Joliet Wednesday night, happily dug his hands into snow drifts and began tossing the white stuff around for a photographer. "I'll do better than that," he said. "I'll pick up the ground."

Three hours earlier Illinois Chief Justice Daniel Ward signed an order releasing Garrett, 26, on a $50,000 personal recognizance bond.

The Illinois Supreme Court overturned Garrett's conviction Tuesday, finally accepting his word that he did not kill Mrs. Karen Thompson, 28, of Park Forest, Ill., in a Chicago Heights motel room Nov. 9, 1969.

Know of any cozy underpasses?

Urban renewal leaving hoboes without homes

DALLAS (UPI)—For seven years Dick Chambers has lived under the northbound lane of the R. L. Thornton freeway near the city's main sewage plant.

The bridge abutments and surrounding underbrush help keep out the wind. He has a place fixed up for cooking.

"Yeah, it gets cold sometimes on winter nights," he says, "but we don't get no rain under here."

He sleeps off his drunks on a choice of two foam rubber pads or an old metal bed frame with a tattered, dirty mattress plopped amid a sea of wine bottles. over it all hovers the smell of sewage effluent and rotting vegetation.

LIKE A prisoner of war, he blurts out his old army serial number, 38426532, along with his name when called on to identify himself.

But despite the squalor, the cold and the ventilated shoes, Chambers places a certain value on the independent life of the derelict.

Given a choice, Chambers — and most the men in his camp — say they have no desire for another life, say, to enter nursing homes.

Whether Chambers and his comrades in rags across the nation can go on living as they have, however, is in doubt. Studies show urban renewal is shoving their haunts aside and already their numbers are declining.

Los Angeles officials are considering demolishing the city's run down Fifth Street area to provide more parking space for banking and shopping. New construction is creeping southward into New York's Bowery district.

IN ST. LOUIS, portions of skid row were wiped out by the Great Arch project. In Denver, a string of cheap bars and flop houses gave way to Larimer Square, now a tourist district with a gaslight motif. Chicago's skid row area is diminishing.

FOR SEVEN years, Dick Chambers has lived under the northbound lane of the R. L. Thornton Freeway near Dallas's main sewage plant. Despite the squalor and cold, Chambers places a certain value on the independent life of the derelict.

Minneapolis' skid row was eleminated by the "Gateway Project," now mainly parking lots. In Kansas City, the once-infamous River Quay is being redeveloped into chic nightclubs, boutiques and organic food stores.

It is not only the Chambers' of the world who are resentful.

"In my view, they're trying to take away an individual's right to decide what to do," said Charlie Walsh, 55, former rail rider and merchant seaman who works at the snack bar at the Dallas Alcoholic Center. "But I don't know. I guess they got to give these social workers something to do."

Kenneth Conaway, 36, the manager of the alcoholic center, who paid his dues on several of the nation's skid rows when he was drinking, also notices a falling off.

"The day of the bum, the wino, is slowly diminishing," he said. "They'rebeing slowly moved out of the cheap hotels, the abandoned cars and railroad yards. Urban renewal is putting places like this out of business."

IN THE MAIN room of the center, about a half dozen solemn, cleanly dressed men sat around, staring at the walls, drinking coffee, chatting in low voices.

"Only had a dozen for lunch," said one of the elderly men to a friend. "I wonder where everybody's at."

But, for the men on the street, food is often less important than the source of the next bottle of wine or liquor, which is shared with friends who trade stories about their past years on the road.

Poetry, too, is sometimes recited.

Jim Cocherham, "The Hammercocker," sat by himself staring into space. There were patches of grime on his leathery face and the area around his bloodshot eyes appeared to be rubbed raw.

HE RECITED the last verse of a poem he learned long ago, back in Arizona when they called him "Texas Red."

When I die go dig my grave.

Bury me down in the cold, cold clay.

Don't set up a tomb, just draw a line

For a long freight train and a jug of wine.

Lawyer plans 3,080-mile human chain

by MIKE KLEIN

The man's name is Marvin Rosenblum. He's listed in the Chicago yellow pages under "Lawyers."

But "justice for all" aside, Rosenblum closes his briefcase and goes home each night and settles down to the serious business of our American Bicentennial celebration.

How did Rosenblum's unique idea originate last December? That much he cannot answer.

An avowed free thinker of strange and curious ideas, Rosenblum envisioned a chain of Americans holding hands, a human testimonial to the Bicentennial spirit, a show of respect for every American from Wild Bill Hickok and John Glenn to Annie Oakley and Amelia Earhart.

It would be the greatest show of patriotism the world has ever witnessed, a human wall 3,080 miles long extending from Boston to Los Angeles. He named his project "Hands Across the Nation." It would be a fitting salute on Sunday, July 4, 1976, all across the states.

MOST OF ALL, IT would be distinctly American. People of every race, religion, occupation and political belief. Men, women and children. Grandfathers, fathers and sons all together. Millionaires and welfare recipients. All of them Americans.

"Imagine standing in Chicago and saying I'm actually joined with someone in San Francisco," Rosenblum wondered aloud. "That's lasting. The event and the aftermath will produce a radical change on how we see each other and how other countries see us, especially in the aftermath of Watergate and Vietnam.

"Is it just a stunt?" Rosenblum repeated the question. "I don't think so."

At first, even Marvin Rosenblum, founder and curator of the notion, thought it was slightly nutty. He rea soned you'd need something like 50 million people. "Initially, it sounded ridiculous, as I believe all great ideas do," said Rosenblum who admits to a "little black book" full of other splendid diversions.

"It's like saying let's invent a telephone, a radio or an automobile," Rosenblum said. "The concept is so foreign because it's never existed."

BUT HE IS NOT easily detoured in any venture. That includes authoring children's books. The Rosenblums of Chicagp, husband Marvin and wife Gina, who teaches art at Northwestern University and served as the book's illustrator, recently finished a fairy tale entitled "The Whipperwonts" about birds who play musical instruments. "We believe it can become a children's classic," he says.

That same enthusiasm pushed Rosemblum ahead with the Bicentennial human chain idea. The name was changed to "Hands Across America" for stronger patriotic identification. When he reasoned that five million Americans would be enough, about 1,400 persons per mile, it sounded even more feasible.

After all, thought Rosenblum, we get 25 or 30 million people assembled to watch football each weekend in person or on television. A few million for holding hands shouldn't be so tough.

"Hands Across America" has at least uncurled its infant fingers since last December. The question now is not just more recognition but also organization.

More than 150 radio outlets, including Radio Australia and the British Broadcasting Corp., have spoken with Rosenblum so have newspapers from all across America and even Munich, Germany.

BUT THERE'S STILL the endless problem of dealing with the nation's roughly 10,000 Bicentennial commissions, plotting routes, enlisting handholders, putting them in position and figuring how to deal with the Rocky Mountains and western deserts.

It's a question, also, of believability. You can have successful "trial lines" in places such as Seattle, Wash., or Spring Arbor, Mich. and Chicago suburban Rosemont, but that's not like making the great snake.

Ray Martin believes. He has ideas about a "Hands Across Mount Prospect" for next July 4. Even though Martin speaks in terms such as "preforming an idea . . . sensible and reasonable," it seems there will be a Mount Prospect chain.

MARTIN HOPES FOR a double line extending throughout Mount Prospect, forming a complete circle.

"We really haven't given this a big push yet," Martin said. And there's little chance the Mount Prospect chain would link with Rosenblum's greater chain of Americans.

Two prospective plans bring the national link through Chicago and its south suburbs but neither includes the northwest suburbs.

Rosenblum admits the final decision regarding an Illinois route is "somewhere down the pike." But it doesn't look good for the northwest suburbs.

AND ROSENBLUM has a long road to travel before he can definitely say that, yes, there will be a "Hands Across America."

"Hands Across Mount Prospect" is small and feasible. Martin has a real chance for success. But Rosenblum must sit in his law office at 10 South LaSalle and wrestle with the monster.

Interest exists. "I keep on getting calls. Everyday there's a half dozen," he said. "It's not just mild interest but something bordering on wild enthusiasm.

"Somebody compared it to standing dimes on end until they reached the moon," Rosenblum said. "That's the difference between an outright plysic al impossibility and an organizational problem.

"In essence, we've got the people. But how do you stretch them across an area?"

THE ANSWER, OF course, is paperwork. That crisp, shuffling of paper and envelopes. The process of staple, fold

Rosenblum claims to need a full-time "Hands Across America" administrator, what he calls the "ultimate professional."

Even though many state committees are assisting him, and the American Revolutionary Bicentennial Administration has expressed some affection for the project, ther's just too much work for Rosenblum.

So there sits "Hands Across America," the brainchild of a 33-year old lawyer. And if he finds the money to pay an administrator, then perhaps next July 4 the whole country can say, "You're in good hands with Marvin Rosenblum."

Poll on state document

Support shown for constitution

A new poll taken on the eve of the fifth anniversary of Illinois' 1970 constitution shows general approval from public officials of the major feature of the document.

The survey wss taken by the magazine, "Illinois Issues," which is published by Sangamon State University, Springfield.

The survey revealed the governor's amendatory veto power appears to be the most controversial provision in the constitution.

Most of the respondents indicated they thought the home-rule provision seems to be the major new facet of the constitution that is working best.

COMMENTS WERE mostly critical of Gov. Daniel Walker's use of the amendatory veto, which allows the governor to rewrite portions of legislation passed by the General Assembly and then send it back to the lawmakers for their approval.

The power became the source of controversy in the recently completed session of the legislature. State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, introduced a constitutional amendment to strip the governor of the power.

Regner said that Walker has misused the amendatory veto power in rewriting many bills.

In commenting on the home-rule provisions in the constitution, State Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, said "home rule has offered the most dramatic flexibility and creativity to government in Illinois."

FTC hearings next week on drug pricing

The Federal Trade Commission has announced that public hearings will be held in Chicago Monday and Tuesday on proposed trade rules which would allow pharmacists to disclose prices for prescription drugs.

The FTC said the proposed rules will help consumers to compare prices for prescription drugs. The rules should reduce retail drug prices by encouraging competition, the agency said. If the FTC's trade rule is adopted, pharmacists would be allowed to give price information on prescription drugs by any means. including posters, lists and advertisement.

The hearings will start at 10 a.m. in Room 347B of the Dirksen Building, 230 S. Dearborn St., Chicago. Among the witnesses slated to appear at the hearings are Celia Maloney, director of the consumer advocate office for Gov. Daniel Walker, Donald Baugher of the Illinois Pharmaceutical Assn. and Dr. Allen Kaplin, associate director of health services and local health administration for the Illinois Dept. of Public Health.

Poll on state document

Support shown for constitution

A new poll taken on the eve of the fifth anniversary of Illinois' 1970 constitution shows general approval from public officials of the major feature of the document.

The survey wss taken by the magazine, "Illinois Issues," which is published by Sangamon State University, Springfield.

The survey revealed the governor's amendatory veto power appears to be the most controversial provision in the constitution.

Most of the respondents indicated they thought the home-rule provision seems to be the major new facet of the constitution that is working best.

COMMENTS WERE mostly critical of Gov. Daniel Walker's use of the amendatory veto, which allows the governor to rewrite portions of legislation passed by the General Assembly and then send it back to the lawmakers for their approval.

The power became the source of controversy in the recently completed session of the legislature. State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, introduced a constitutional amendment to strip the governor of the power.

Regner said that Walker has misused the amendatory veto power in rewriting many bills.

In commenting on the home-rule provisions in the constitution, State Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, said "home rule has offered the most dramatic flexibility and creativity to government in Illinois."

FTC hearings next week on drug pricing

The Federal Trade Commission has announced that public hearings will be held in Chicago Monday and Tuesday on proposed trade rules which would allow pharmacists to disclose prices for prescription drugs.

The FTC said the proposed rules will help consumers to compare prices for prescription drugs. The rules should reduce retail drug prices by encouraging competition, the agency said. If the FTC's trade rule is adopted, pharmacists would be allowed to give price information on prescription drugs by any means, including posters, lists and advertisement.

The hearings will start at 10 a.m. in Room 347B of the Dirksen Building, 230 S. Dearborn St., Chicago. Among the witnesses slated to appear at the hearings are Celia Maloney, director of the consumer advocate office for Gov. Daniel Walker, Donald Baugher of the Illinois Pharmaceutical Assn. and Dr. Allen Kaplin, associate director of health services and local health administration for the Illinois Dept. of Public Health.

Graham to run again for 2nd District seat

State Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, has announced he will seek reelection to his seat in the 2nd Legislative District.

Graham, an assistant Senate minority leader, has served in the Senate since 1959. He has been a member of the Republican leadership in the Senate since 1973.

"Considering the critical problems facing Illinois, over the next few years, I think it is essential that legislators have practical experience in government," Graham said.

Graham also cited the current controversy surrounding the state board of elections as another reason for seeking reelection. He sponsored legislation to create the panel.

An Illinois court judge recently ruled the four-person board was unconstitutional. Graham said the current situation has created a "toothless tiger" in terms of cleaning up state election practices.

Besides his leadership position, Graham also is the minority spokesman on the Labor and Commerce and Assignment of Bills committees. He is a member of the Executive, Appointments, Administration and Revenue committees.

He also serves in leadership positions on a number of state commissions in the areas of election laws, prisons and other areas.

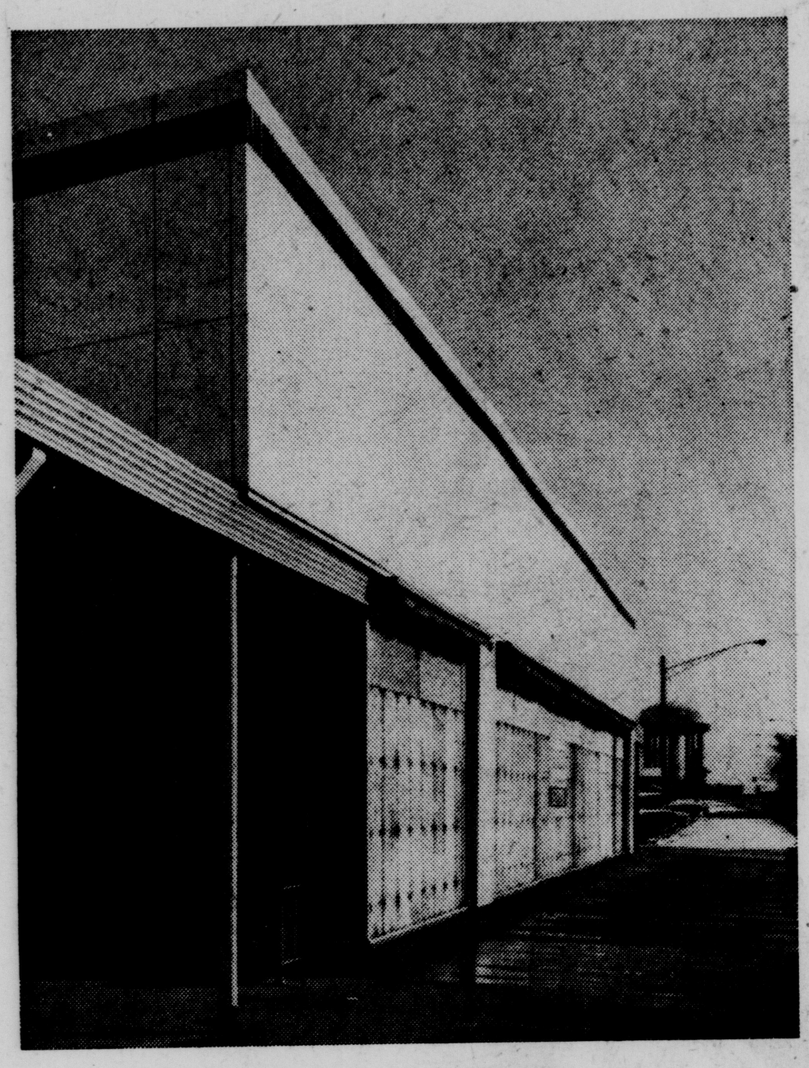
The way we see it

Area driver test site choices seem plentiful

We're fed up with excuses.

We're fed up with hearing year after year that the Secretary of State's office is searching for a driver testing center for the Northwest suburbs.

We have no such center to serve our people six years after the rhetoric began, and we frankly believe current Secretary of State Michael Howlett has little intention of following through with his promise to the people of this area. His promise appears to be no better than the promises made by his predecessors Paul Powell and John Lewis, who also said they would locate a driver testing center here.



Former Jewel store, Mount Prospect.

All we ask, Mr. Howlett, is what you told us we needed: a place where a resident can go to renew his driver's license within reasonable proximity to where he lives. The closest center now is in Libertyville, and as you've told us, that is too far away to serve the Northwest suburbs conveniently.

We don't need a $5 million building with a testing track as a monument to the drivers. What we need is a place to stop on the way home from work where we can take care of our state driver's license requirements.

So you'll recall what's NOT been done, Mr. Howlett, let's run through the bureaucratic maze again, just for the record.

In 1972, the state legislature appropriated $5.3 million for a driver testing center in the Northwest suburbs and a special committee of local officials came up with several sites. But none were suitable, according to the state. The unsuitable sites included land near Uncle Andy's Cow Palace in Palatine, Quentin and Northwest Highway and one near Barrington Hills; the search continued. We heard there were options to rent spaces in smaller shopping areas in Arlington Heights and Schaumburg among others. All without success.

So, Mr. Howlett, we want to give you some help.

Because Palatine once was considered for the center and we felt it was a good location, we called a local real estate salesman to find out what might be available.

"About a half dozen places available right now," he said. And he began to rattle off the places the Secretary of State's office apparently hasn't discovered.

The English Valley Shopping Center, Smith Street and Dundee Road; a shopping center at Hicks and Dundee roads; the transportation center in downtown Palatine.

Former Skorberg store, Schaumburg.

"How about the Palatine landfill, Smith Street south of Northwest Highway? The village might be in the market to sell it," the real estate man said.

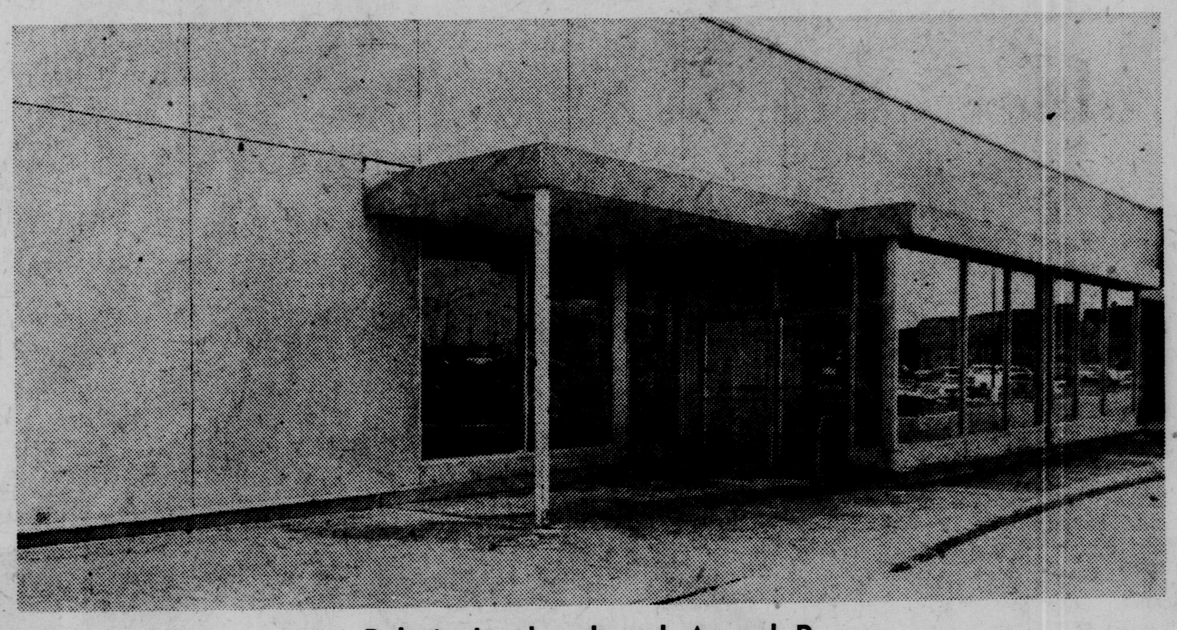
The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce held a meeting the other day and came up with several store-front locations which they said would be suitable for the center. "There are two very good sites," said an Arlington Heights business official.

We surveyed the situation ourselves and found several abandoned grocery stores that have ample parking and large office space and large for rent or sale signs in the windows.

There's an old Jewel store on Northwest Highway in Mount Prospect, and an old Jewel store in downtown Des Plaines, Ellinwood Street and Graceland Ave.

We submit the list, Mr. Howlett, for your consideration. And if you check these out and find the soil isn't adequate, or the opposition from currency exchanges is too strong, or the neighbors are up in arms, give us a call and we'll find other possible locations.

We see new grocery stores, and drug stores and developments of almost every imaginable size and shape going up in the area every day. We wonder why a driver testing center is so different.



Palatine's abandoned A and P.

'Philosopher put cart before horse'

Your phone conversation with Will Durant as recorded in the Nov. 14 Herald was quite interesting. The only hope this 90-year-old historian-philosopher offers for America is that things may get so bad that ultimately they get better.

I would like to challenge two of his statements. If they are true, his philosophy may very well be prophetic. The first is his assertion that "wealth leads to freedom, but freedom is an awfully difficult business."

To paraphrase his statement to read, "Wealth leads to free time," would make it correct. What we do with our free time is indeed difficult business. Free time "without intelligence, without thought, becomes chaos." To further paraphrase and render it to read Christ leads to fredom would be absolutely correct. Only by the Grace of God through Christ Jesus can anyone be free from the bondage of sin, and the Grace of God is unwarranted favor, a free gift. We cannot buy it and we cannot earn it, but we can refuse it.

Mr. Durant's first error leads him to say that "any civilization that can produce a Christ, a Moses, a Plato, a Spinoza, a Shakespeare, a Beethoven, well, it can't be all bad." This puts Mr. Durant in an untenable position. In the first place, he has the cart before the horse. Civilization did not produce Christ, He produced civilization by divine creative power without Simian assistance. To deny his Diety as Mr. Durant does, and still recognize him as a great man, creates middle ground which does not exist.

Christ Jesus was and is all that he professed to be, one with God the Father, or else He was the blasphemous demonic liar who ever lived. Mr. Durant can take his choice between those two extremes, but truth will not allow any other alternative.

Our moral code has indeed withered because we have lost our basis of authority. Without absolute values of right and wrong as defined in the Bible, our society is in deep trouble. To rely on the same source of intelligence that plunged us into our moral decay to pull us out of it is like going to a bald barber to learn how to keep your hair.

Where are our Christian churches? They are still there, but Satan must be well pleased with the division and dimensions he has created in them. It is high time for all of us as individual christians to get off our dead theology, get back to the basic Bible and tell it like it really is.

Asks Christmas giving for the retarded

Let's spread a little Christmas cheer to those less fortunate than we are. When we buy gifts for our own children and relatives, let's buy an extra gift for the mentally retarded in our state institutions. There are over 10,000 residents in Illinois alone, of all ages, all degrees of retardation, that are so often forgotten left to the state to supply them with the barest of necessities.

They can use almost anything. The elderly are least remembered, but since most of them are childlike, simple things are best. Cherished items are playing cards, balls, dolls, head scarfs, wallets, simple games like checkers, coloring books, crayons, just about anything that's not glass. It's sad to hear of a young girl clutching a brown paper bag with a small comb in it, her only possession.

Most of the residents go home, if at all possible, leaving those who have no family or friends. Since Jack Mabley instigated the Forgotten Children's Fund ten years ago, and later this was joined by Wally Phillips, WIND and many others, everyone at least receives one gift at Christmas and another on their birthday. If you want to send a monetary gift, the address is Forgotten Children's Fund, 435 N. Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Thanks so much to everyone who has helped with the collection of Betty Crocker coupons to benefit Dixon State School. We reached our ultimate quota of 500,000 coupons, valued at $2,500 over the last eight years. This year our final gift was a merry-go-round for $500 plus $100 in individual gifts purchased from K-Mart.

If you would like to show some compassion to someone who may only have the friendly thought of someone on the outside of their world, won't you bring a small inexpensive unwrapped gift to my home, where a Mayflower van or newspaper truck will deliver them to Dixon. The deadline is Dec. 12. You'll have a merrier Christmas yourself for your thoughtfulness.

More mail for Marcy

In regards to an article in the Thursday, Nov. 13 Arlington Herald pertaining to Mr. Marcy owing Laseke Disposal 52 cents.

I think the whole situation is ridiculous and I sympathize with Mr. Marcy.

I don't believe there is one single businessman in the world that doesn't bend once in a while, except, of course, Laseke.

What about federal holidays when Laseke has to skip a pick-up? Can the villagers deduct that day from their bill? I'm sure that if all the villagers did, Laseke would lose more than 52 cents.

I have lived in the village for six years, and all of the six years I have heard nothing but bad feeling between the villagers and Laseke. When will the feud come to a halt?

Laseke must have some strange power over the Village of Arlington Heights, for their contract is always renewed.

I wish I only knew how many villagers have had problems with Laseke.

Where is Alice Harms, she seems to be the only one lately that really cares about what is happening in our village.

C&NW's Provo: 'Man who's been had'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a copy of a letter to Larry S. Provo, president of the Chicago and North Western Ry.:

I was both amused and impressed by your circular, "The RTA Could and Should Be Great But . . ."

I was amused because this was written by a man — completely furious — in the final realization that he has been "had." Considering that you spent considerable North Western money (thirty odd thousand I understand) to get RTA, I can understand your feeling.

The RTA is performing its designed function to perfection. Five and a half counties are now financing the CTA. If there was ever any doubt of what RTA was to be the appointment of Pikarsky as chairman, at a ridiculous salary, settled that Mayor Daley has done his job and done it well. I admire him for it.

In your circular you now propose to do yours, which is to run the North Western as a private enterprise and to hell with RTA.

I have a considerable vested interest in the North Western as a private enterprise maintaining quality service.

First is my considerable investment in property. With the quality of service RTA would, in the long run provide, I lose a lot of bucks.

Secondly, there "ain't no way" I can duplicate North Western service for double the proposed increased North Western fare.

Third, and not the least, I enjoy personal comfort. I do wish, however you would provide enough auxiliary power on the 5:20 out of Chicago to operate the air conditioning reasonably.

I am no more anxious than anyone else to pay $16.95 more a month. I understand your problem and if that is what it takes to help North Western commuter service a private enterprise it is in my best interest to do so. For me (with travel 200 days/year) the new fare is $1.75 per one way trip. (50 cents per ride increase).

For that I couldn't even park a car in Chicago (with tax).

I feel you are on the right track but one thing disturbs me. There are those who feel that you will be "sweet talked" and ultimately lose your present high resolve and succumb to the "repressive and regressive" restrictions of RTA.

To increase rates as you propose is going to be a long hard fight. So long as you continue your present course you can depend on my support.

Curb on food stamp abuses fails in House

From the Roll Call Report

The U.S. House rejected an attempt last week to curb abuses to the federal food stamp program by limiting eligible households to families with income below the poverty level, which would mean a family of four would have to make less than $5,050 to qualify for assistance.

Under the present law, food stamps are available on a month-by-month basis to families who have their incomes reduced suddenly. The amendment, which was defeated by a vote of 159-230, was tacked on to a supplemental appropriations bill which granted $7.9 billion to fund unemployment compensation programs through Sept. 30, 1976. The House passed the ful bill.

The vote on the amendment was

NO: Mikva, Murphy, Russo, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Hall, Railsback, Shipley, Price and Simon.

THE U.S. SENATE voted 52-47 on an amendment to partially dismantle the nation's only antiballistic missile site near Grand Forks, N.D. The site, which cost $6 billion, has been in operation since Oct. 1. The move came as an amendment attached to a $112.6 billion defense appropriation package. The amendment would reduce the operating costs of the site from $85 million to about $20 million. Critics of the amendment argued it was premature without first getting Russian agreement on disarmament plans.

Both Illinois Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson were in favor of the amendment.

In a related action the Senate also rejected a move to reduce the ceiling on over-all defense appropriations from $90.8 billion to $90.2 billion. Supporters of the effort said the move was necessary to stop the continuing American-Soviet game of Russian Roulette. Opponents claimed the larger ceiling was already $7 billion less than the Pentagon's request.

Stevenson voted yes on the bill while Percy voted no.

Curb on food stamp abuses fails in House

From the Roll Call Report

The U.S. House rejected an attempt last week to curb abuses to the federal food stamp program by limiting eligible households to families with income below the poverty level, which would mean a family of four would have to make less than $5,050 to qualify for assistance.

Under the present law, food stamps are available on a month-by-month basis to families who have their incomes reduced suddenly. The amendment, which was defeated by a vote of 159-230, was tacked on to a supplemental appropriations bill which granted $7.9 billion to fund unemployment compensation programs through Sept. 30, 1976. The House passed the ful bill.

The vote on the amendment was

NO: Mikva, Murphy, Russo, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Hall, Railsback, Shipley, Price and Simon.

THE U.S. SENATE voted 52-47 on an amendment to partially dismantle the nation's only antiballistic missile site near Grand Forks, N.D. The site, which cost $6 billion, has been in operation since Oct. 1. The move came as an amendment attached to a $112.6 billion defense appropriation package. The amendment would reduce the operating costs of the site from $85 million to about $20 million. Critics of the amendment argued it was premature without first getting Russian agreement on disarmament plans.

Both Illinois Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson were in favor of the amendment.

In a related action the Senate also rejected a move to reduce the ceiling on over-all defense appropriations from $90.8 billion to $90.2 billion. Supporters of the effort said the move was necessary to stop the continuing American-Soviet game of Russian Roulette. Opponents claimed the larger ceiling was already $7 billion less than the Pentagon's request.

Stevenson voted yes on the bill while Percy voted no.

New NORTRAN bus routes Monday

New bus routes and schedules for NORTRAN buses operating in Northwest suburban area will go into effect Monday.

Officials of the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) and of the Regional Transportation Authority announced the changes this week along with plans to distribute schedules to riders Friday.

Travel information to help riders find their way on the new routes is available by calling NORTRAN at 824-2111 or at 670-5000.

Among the changes in the route system that affect Northwest suburban residents are:

- Eliminating a route along Northwest Highway from Barrington to Des Plaines.
- Re-routing intra-city service in Des Plaines on routes similar to those proposed by city officials earlier this year.
- Adding a new route (number 26) along Oakton Street from Des Plaines to Skokie, serving Oakton Community College and continuing south to the Jefferson Park terminal of the Chicago Transit Authority.
- Revising the existing service from Des Plaines to O'Hare Airport so that the route begins in Glenview and also connects to the Golf Mill Shopping Center in Niles.
- Rerouting the NORTRAN bus to Wheeling so that it connects to the Milwaukee Road R.R. station in Glenview and also allows transfers to buses to Des Plaines and O'Hare Airport.

Service on the intracity routes in Des Plaines and Park Ridge will be free for at least a week to introduce residents to the new routes. The fares for all rides on local routes will be standardized at 45 cents and rides to Chicago's Loop will cost $1 from any point in the system after the free period is over. Currently fares are based on the distance of the ride.

The RTA will subsidize the new routes for a minimum of six months. At the end of that time the routes will be evaluated to determine their effectiveness.

The new schedules also will increase frequency of buses on several routes and will establish simple interval schedules that can be memorized more easily by riders.

Hospital honors 75 employes for long service

Thank you

Elementary school essayists tell gratitude for mommy, daddy, health, food, football . . .

by PAM BIGFORD

In an era of moon rockets, push-button-toys and television babysitters, it is heartening to realize that children today say they are thankful for the same basics that children 100 years ago might have named.

Second graders in Patty Totzke's class at Campanelli School and fifth graders in Ann Keyes' class at Dirksen School, both in Schaumburg, pondered what they are thankful for and wrote the following themes:

"The things that I am thankful for are that I have a mother and father," writes Corine Ramos at Campanelli. "And that I have lots of friends. And that we have a home to sleep in. And that we have food on the table. And that we have four seasons and because we have nacher and forits and ather beutifull things like that."

"I'VE ENJOYED the education that my father took all his time earning money for," Lorraine Steiner of Dirksen writes. "I thank my mom for keeping me healthy. My mother, father, sisters and brothers are all thankful for our small family."

Mike Nissley of Campanelli is thankful for his mom because "my mom is the only one who can fix a meel for my famley. And because she can tell me what is good for me. And my mom can go to work and get money for me and my sister. And I am thankful for my bike because I can ride it around the blok."

"I'm grateful that I have a family," writes Michael Pinter of Dirksen. "For instance, my mother, she spends most of her time at work to get money to feed our family. The same with my father. My father helps me with football and building models so I like him just because he makes me feel happy. My sister with freckles on her face is nice but a pest. But I like her as a family member."

Vonda Meltesen of Campanelli is thankful for winter because "snow will fall. And I can make a snowman. I will make a big pile of snow around the snowman and dig a hole in it and I will go up in the snow man and there will be three flors. It will be fun. And it will be ice pretty soon."

"MY PARENTS take care of me when I am sick or hurt," writes Patti Foertsch of Dirksen. "My dad goes to work to make money to buy food and clothing and to pay for our house. I have nice sisters and brothers to play with when I have nothing to do."

Cindy Eckhardt of Campanelli is not only thankful for her family but also "ore pool table. Ore home, cloths and food. I like my teacher a lot! And my oan bedroom. I am thankful for my ants and uncls and cosants to. But if I didn't have any of those things I would be very unhappy. But I do and that's that."

"I am graetful because I have a nice mother and father," Tom Dreizler of Dirksen writes. "Also I am happy for the school I go to. I'm glad I have a nice principal. I cannot forget to mention Cub Scouts, my den leader, my friends in the pack and in my class, my friends around the block."

"I am thankful that I have a family, friends, four dogs and a cat," writes Steven Maass of Dirksen. "My brother is pretty nice. I have a baby brother who always laughs at me. My father has a job and makes enough money to support us. Mostly I am thankful that I am alive."

Lisa Esposito of Campanelli is thankful that "I am born. And that God made our bodies nice and that he made it so we can breath. And I am thankful that we have food and that we have things that make us feel good And I am thankful that I have a family. And am thankful for most everything in the whole world."

Thank you

Elementary school essayists tell gratitude for mommy, daddy, health, food, football . . .

by PAM BIGFORD

In an era of moon rockets, push-button-toys and television babysitters, it is heartening to realize that children today say they are thankful for the same basics that children 100 years ago might have named.

Second graders in Patty Totzke's class at Campanelli School and fifth graders in Ann Keyes' class at Dirksen School, both in Schaumburg, pondered what they are thankful for and wrote the following themes:

"The things that I am thankful for are that I have a mother and father," writes Corine Ramos at Campanelli. "And that I have lots of friends. And that we have a home to sleep in. And that we have food on the table. And that we have four seasons and because we have nacher and forits and ather beutifull things like that."

"I'VE ENJOYED the education that my father took all his time earning money for," Lorraine Steiner of Dirksen writes. "I thank my mom for keeping me healthy. My mother, father, sisters and brothers are all thankful for our small family."

Mike Nissley of Campanelli is thankful for his mom because "my mom is the only one who can fix a meel for my famley. And because she can tell me what is good for me. And my mom can go to work and get money for me and my sister. And I am thankful for my bike because I can ride it around the blok."

"I'm grateful that I have a family," writes Michael Pinter of Dirksen. "For instance, my mother, she spends most of her time at work to get money to feed our family. The same with my father. My father helps me with football and building models so I like him just because he makes me feel happy. My sister with freckles on her face is nice but a pest. But I like her as a family member."

Vonda Meltesen of Campanelli is thankful for winter because "snow will fall. And I can make a snowman. I will make a big pile of snow around the snowman and dig a hole in it and I will go up in the snow man and there will be three flors. It will be fun. And it will be ice pretty soon."

"MY PARENTS take care of me when I am sick or hurt," writes Patti Foertsch of Dirksen. "My dad goes to work to make money to buy food and clothing and to pay for our house. I have nice sisters and brothers to play with when I have nothing to do."

Cindy Eckhardt of Campanelli is not only thankful for her family but also "ore pool table. Ore home, cloths and food. I like my teacher a lot! And my oan bedroom. I am thankful for my ants and uncls and cosants to. But if I didn't have any of those things I would be very unhappy. But I do and that's that."

"I am graetful because I have a nice mother and father," Tom Dreizler of Dirksen writes. "Also I am happy for the school I go to. I'm glad I have a nice principal. I cannot forget to mention Cub Scouts, my den leader, my friends in the pack and in my class, my friends around the block."

"I am thankful that I have a family, friends, four dogs and a cat," writes Steven Maass of Dirksen. "My brother is pretty nice. I have a baby brother who always laughs at me. My father has a job and makes enough money to support us. Mostly I am thankful that I am alive."

Lisa Esposito of Campanelli is thankful that "I am born. And that God made our bodies nice and that he made it so we can breath. And I am thankful that we have food and that we have things that make us feel good And I am thankful that I have a family. And am thankful for most everything in the whole world."

Lean body better for good health

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

I need information for us less fortunate folks who suffer from reverse obesity. We are not famine victims, yet have as hearty an appetite as our obese counterparts. Nonetheless, we would sell our souls for the excess our stout friends want to shed. We seem to never gain — no matter what and how much we eat.

What advice have you for an average, young male, 25 years old, 6 foot, 1 inch and tipping the scales at 145 pounds soaking wet? Note, a recent physical rules out any abnormalities.

Count your blessings and pray that it lasts. I get buckets of mail from people concerned with losing weight, and a smaller but consistent amount from people like yourself. As I have mentioned before, the answer is not in taking in a huge number of calories and trying to hang rolls of at on a lean frame. You don't want a pot of fat and a spare tire and a bubble bottom, and that is about what you will get from that effort. Also, such a program would greatly increase your chances of high blood pressure, diabetes, heart and vascular disease. The simple truth is that you have a much better chance for continued good health, as long as you retain your present leanness, than your obese counterparts.

So, you are unhappy with how you look. What you really want is to develop some muscles which is not all bad. To do that you need a good strength training program. You are in a large enough city to get some help on a muscle building program from a city health club or from your YMCA.

THERE ARE some tricks to building muscles the healthy way. It doesn't take so much exercise either. If you do too much exercise the wrong way, you will not grow muscles as successfully as you could with a better program. For details on how to follow a sensible muscle development program send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control. This program will also be helpful for people who need to build muscles to prevent obesity. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292. Include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

I have a few words of caution about muscle building programs. Do not listen to recommendations about taking in lots of extra protein. Just eat a good diet each day with about 100 grams of protein. Do not listen to any unsound suggestions to drink half-and-half cream or to eat foods containing lots of fat.

DO NOT LISTEN to any advice to avoid other forms of exercise that you enjoy except a weight-training program. All of those measures will add fat inside your muscles and may make your muscles look bigger, but you can seriously damage your health with such efforts. What you want are strong, lean muscles.

I can't emphasize the points about diet with weight training too much. Young men are susceptible to heart disease even in their early 20s, and consuming a fattening diet to become fat-marbled beef is very unwise.

Incidentally, many thin people thrive and gain weight when they stop smoking if that should be one of your habits. Nicotine is a cellular poison, and when the poison is removed the cells grow better.

Back-to-school workshop offered

"Back To School," an all-day workshop for women considering entering college, will be offered by the Harper College Women's Program on Thursday, Dec. 4, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the college board rooms.

The workshop includes information on admissions procedures, problems dealing with uncertainties about competence, and obstacles revolving around family responsibilities.

The $8 fee includes lunch. To register, those interested should send name, address, telephone and social security number with a check to the Admissions Office, William Rainey Harper College, Roselle and Algonquin Roads, Palatine, Ill. 60067. Reservations can be phoned to 397-3000, ext. 410. Reservations for child care, for an additional fee, can be made at 397-3000, ext. 548.

Simple way to preserve driftwood

Dear Dorothy: I got fascinated with a piece of driftwood while on our vacation and brought it back with me. What I need now are some instructions on how to preserve it.—Helene Swick

The simplest way is to soak the piece for a week or so in a chlorine bleach solution, then scrub with a brush to get it clean. Once it's thoroughly dry, you can apply paste wax and buff. That's all.

A more elaborate way is to make a mixture of half turpentine and half linseed oil and apply to the driftwood every day until you get the desired finish. Some people do this for as long as a month. It produces a natural finish with a soft sheen. Luck.

Dear Dorothy: My husband ordered smoked finnan haddie in a restaurant and kept exclaiming what a treat it was. Is it hard to prepare?—Eva Kann

It's one of the simplest of dishes imaginable. You can steam finnan haddie in a pan of water and serve it with melted margarine or butter. I like it best done in a regular stainless steamer. Yes, it's a favorite in this household, too.

Daar Dorothy: Paint spots on the varnished floor of our apartment annoyed me. I'd read that salad oil was good to take paint off one's hands and wondered if it would also work on floors. Put some on the spots and let it stay a couple hours. Then slipped the blade of a paring knife under each edge — and off they came with ease. Good idea to pass along.—Hildreth Wiener

Dear Dorothy: Here's a tip for all those on low-sodium diets. Try lemon juice on your vegetables. You'll like it.—Jan Drezner.

Ask Andy

Black holes really bottomless pits

WHAT IS A BLACK HOLE?

Astronomers invented the term black hole to explain something in the vast reaches of outer space. Based on what they know about cosmic laws, there should be certain objects where gravity is so strong even light cannot escape. After years of patient probing, it now seems likely that such an object has been found — and black holes really do exist.

In September we watched a nova, a new star, blaze up and subside in the constellation Cygnus, the Swan. A few years ago, in that same celestial neighborhood, astronomers identified what may prove to be a black hole. This strange object is estimated to be about 5,000 light-years from the earth — which means that its various X-ray signals have traveled 5,000 years to reach us. Cygnus X-1, as the strange object is called, is a binary system, including a large and a small stellar object orbiting around each other.

The small object is extremely dense, and a thimbleful of its tightly packed material weighs many tons. Dense little objects of this sort occur when large stars collapse, perhaps after the stupendous explosion which creates a supernova. However, the small partner in Cygnus X-1 does not qualify as either a white dwarf star or a pulsar.

Other evidence revealed gaseous material was being drawn from the large star into its small partner. The situation had all the earmarks of a black hole, something that astronomers had believed in for some time.

The theory of the black hole is based on what could happen when a collapsed star continues to collapse to an almost impossible density. Since gravity is related to mass, its gravitational pulling power becomes enormously powerful. Normal earth gravity prevents objects from escaping the surface. The pulling power of a black hole object prevents the escape of electromagnetic radiation — including light.

No light, radio or anything else can escape from the surface, and a black hole disappears from the universe.

However, when other objects come within close range, the gravitational force of the black hole pulls them down into its bottomless pit. This could explain various X-ray signals that come from the binary system. It is thought that these occur when gobs of matter from the large partner are pulled down into the black hole.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of C. S. Lewis' "Chronicles of Narnia" to Cindy Gonier, 11, of East Brunswick, N. J., for her question:

WHERE DOES TEA COME FROM?

To make a pot of tea, you pour boiling water on a small helping of dried leaves which have a slightly tangy fragrance. They are picked, very carefully, from the tea plant, an evergreen shrub that grows in warm climates. It will grow at sea level, but the most tasty tea leaves are grown on mountain slopes, often as high as 7,000 feet. Most of the world's tea is grown on mountain slopes in India. China, Japan, Ceylon and several other countries also produce tea.

Cultivated tea plants are allowed to grow about three or four feet high. At the age of 3 to 5 years they are ready for the first harvest, when the plant sprouts new twigs. The new leaves are picked tenderly, dried and sorted. To make sure the flavor is just right, an expert tea taster sips a brew of this sample and that sample. In North America most of us prefer coffee, but in other countries tea is more popular.

Black holes really bottomless pits

WHAT IS A BLACK HOLE?

Astronomers invented the term black hole to explain something in the vast reaches of outer space. Based on what they know about cosmic laws, there should be certain objects where gravity is so strong even light cannot escape. After years of patient probing, it now seems likely that such an object has been found — and black holes really do exist.

In September we watched a nova, a new star, blaze up and subside in the constellation Cygnus, the Swan. A few years ago, in that same celestial neighborhood, astronomers identified what may prove to be a black hole. This strange object is estimated to be about 5,000 light-years from the earth — which means that its various X-ray signals have traveled 5,000 years to reach us. Cygnus X-1, as the strange object is called, is a binary system, including a large and a small stellar object orbiting around each other.

The small object is extremely dense, and a thimbleful of its tightly packed material weighs many tons. Dense little objects of this sort occur when large stars collapse, perhaps after the stupendous explosion which creates a supernova. However, the small partner in Cygnus X-1 does not qualify as either a white dwarf star or a pulsar.

Other evidence revealed gaseous material was being drawn from the large star into its small partner. The situation had all the earmarks of a black hole, something that astronomers had believed in for some time.

The theory of the black hole is based on what could happen when a collapsed star continues to collapse to an almost impossible density. Since gravity is related to mass, its gravitational pulling power becomes enormously powerful. Normal earth gravity prevents objects from escaping the surface. The pulling power of a black hole object prevents the escape of electromagnetic radiation — including light.

No light, radio or anything else can escape from the surface, and a black hole disappears from the universe.

However, when other objects come within close range, the gravitational force of the black hole pulls them down into its bottomless pit. This could explain various X-ray signals that come from the binary system. It is thought that these occur when gobs of matter from the large partner are pulled down into the black hole.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of C. S. Lewis' "Chronicles of Narnia" to Cindy Gonier, 11, of East Brunswick, N. J., for her question:

WHERE DOES TEA COME FROM?

To make a pot of tea, you pour boiling water on a small helping of dried leaves which have a slightly tangy fragrance. They are picked, very carefully, from the tea plant, an evergreen shrub that grows in warm climates. It will grow at sea level, but the most tasty tea leaves are grown on mountain slopes, often as high as 7,000 feet. Most of the world's tea is grown on mountain slopes in India. China, Japan, Ceylon and several other countries also produce tea.

Cultivated tea plants are allowed to grow about three or four feet high. At the age of 3 to 5 years they are ready for the first harvest, when the plant sprouts new twigs. The new leaves are picked tenderly, dried and sorted. To make sure the flavor is just right, an expert tea taster sips a brew of this sample and that sample. In North America most of us prefer coffee, but in other countries tea is more popular.

Bidding hog gets butchered in this play

West had two reasons for his four-spade call. The first one was that he just might make it. East might well be short in diamonds and hold the queen of clubs.

The second reason was that he knew his opponents, North just hated to let an opponent play the hand when he had some cards. West didn't know if he could beat four hearts or even five hearts, but he sure knew that he had a far better chance against five.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

He didn't double. It is downright silly to double merely because you think you may beat the contract. The odds against you are too great.

The contract did go down. West opened his king of spades and wound up with a spade trick and his two side aces.

Of course, North should not have bid five hearts. He should have passed. South would double four spades, set it two tricks and pick up 300 points, which is a much better result than being set at five hearts.

ABC to kill 'Saturday Night Live'

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC will kill Saturday Night Live Jan. 17 after 18 performances in which the ratings were dismal — but better than ABC has been accustomed to since Lawrence Welk.

The show's star, sports broadcaster Howard Cosell, will make two more specials for the network — details currently unavailable — to complete contractual obligations.

For ABC, Saturday night has been the loneliest night of the week for years, and remains so even though on other nights the network has been having its best season ever and presenting a real challenge to both CBS and NBC.

JUST HOW DOWN in the dumps, and the ratings, Saturday night has been becomes clear when you hear Frederick S. Pierce, ABC television president, announce the end of the Cosell show and praise it for having "done a fine job in helping us build back ratings in a time period that has been a very disappointing one for us in past years."

Specifically, he said the Cosell show had improved ABC's ratings 64 per cent in the 8-9 p.m. Saturday time slot. That's the slot that for the last couple of seasons was held by "Kung Fu," a chopsticks Western that went nowhere.

How bad ABC's position has been is underlined by the fact that for the week ending Nov. 23, Cosell's show ranked 62nd out of 64 programs ranking by A. C. Nielsen, with a rating of 11.6 and a 19 share of the audience. A 30 share is considered respectable.

Pierce wasn't knocking anybody for failing in the time spot that has been in trouble since champagne music started going flat in the ratings. He praised both Cosell and Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports and executive producer of Saturday Night Live.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Bidding hog gets butchered in this play

West had two reasons for his four-spade call. The first one was that he just might make it. East might well be short in diamonds and hold the queen of clubs.

The second reason was that he knew his opponents, North just hated to let an opponent play the hand when he had some cards. West didn't know if he could beat four hearts or even five hearts, but he sure knew that he had a far better chance against five.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

He didn't double. It is downright silly to double merely because you think you may beat the contract. The odds against you are too great.

The contract did go down. West opened his king of spades and wound up with a spade trick and his two side aces.

Of course, North should not have bid five hearts. He should have passed. South would double four spades, set it two tricks and pick up 300 points, which is a much better result than being set at five hearts.

ABC to kill 'Saturday Night Live'

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC will kill Saturday Night Live Jan. 17 after 18 performances in which the ratings were dismal — but better than ABC has been accustomed to since Lawrence Welk.

The show's star, sports broadcaster Howard Cosell, will make two more specials for the network — details currently unavailable — to complete contractual obligations.

For ABC, Saturday night has been the loneliest night of the week for years, and remains so even though on other nights the network has been having its best season ever and presenting a real challenge to both CBS and NBC.

JUST HOW DOWN in the dumps, and the ratings, Saturday night has been becomes clear when you hear Frederick S. Pierce, ABC television president, announce the end of the Cosell show and praise it for having "done a fine job in helping us build back ratings in a time period that has been a very disappointing one for us in past years."

Specifically, he said the Cosell show had improved ABC's ratings 64 per cent in the 8-9 p.m. Saturday time slot. That's the slot that for the last couple of seasons was held by "Kung Fu," a chopsticks Western that went nowhere.

How bad ABC's position has been is underlined by the fact that for the week ending Nov. 23, Cosell's show ranked 62nd out of 64 programs ranking by A. C. Nielsen, with a rating of 11.6 and a 19 share of the audience. A 30 share is considered respectable.

Pierce wasn't knocking anybody for failing in the time spot that has been in trouble since champagne music started going flat in the ratings. He praised both Cosell and Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports and executive producer of Saturday Night Live.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Talent abounds on All-Area team

Scott Zettek – St. Viator
Honorary defensive captain

Schaumburg tops 24-man squad with 5 players

There was a wealth of high school football talent in the Herald area this past season.

Three local teams made it into the state playoffs for the first time. And from that talented trio the sports staff has selected 11 of the 24 young men for the Seventh Annual Paddock Publications All-Area team.

Of the 17 schools served by Paddock's chain of Cook County newspapers, 10 landed players on this superb team. The Herald's seven-man staff made the selections.

Topping this exclusive list are the honorary co-captains — Schaumburg's Russ Zonca and St. Viator's Scott Zettek. Zonca, a superb option quarterback, leads our offense and Zettek, a powerful defensive end, heads our defense.

It's the second straight year our captains have come from St. Viator (Bobby Walsh) and Schaumburg (Ken Jaffke).

Zonca generaled Schaumburg to an undefeated regular season and its second straight Mid-Suburban South Division title. From this fine team which lost a close game in the playoff opening round, a record five players, including Zonca, are on the first team.

Hersey, which captured the MSL North crown and won its first-round playoff game, and Palatine, one of the most potent offenses in the area, have four players each.

St. Viator, winner of the East Suburban Catholic Conference title, places two each as does Arlington, Buffalo Grove and Prospect.

Elk Grove, Maine West and Hoffman Estates have one player representing each of them. It's a first for Hoffman.

Past honorary captains were Hersey's Mark Zakula and Elk Grove's Don Weadley (1973), Elk Grove's Jeff Stewart (1972), St. Viator's Joe Bombicino (1971), Arlington's Scott Douglass (1970) and Conant's Jim McGraw (1969).

Each of the all-area players will receive an attractive certificate suitable for framing.

A special mention team was also named. See inside for details on both teams as well as features on the honorary captains.

Talent abounds on All-Area team

Scott Zettek – St. Viator
Honorary defensive captain

Schaumburg tops 24-man squad with 5 players

There was a wealth of high school football talent in the Herald area this past season.

Three local teams made it into the state playoffs for the first time. And from that talented trio the sports staff has selected 11 of the 24 young men for the Seventh Annual Paddock Publications All-Area team.

Of the 17 schools served by Paddock's chain of Cook County newspapers, 10 landed players on this superb team. The Herald's seven-man staff made the selections.

Topping this exclusive list are the honorary co-captains — Schaumburg's Russ Zonca and St. Viator's Scott Zettek. Zonca, a superb option quarterback, leads our offense and Zettek, a powerful defensive end, heads our defense.

It's the second straight year our captains have come from St. Viator (Bobby Walsh) and Schaumburg (Ken Jaffke).

Zonca generaled Schaumburg to an undefeated regular season and its second straight Mid-Suburban South Division title. From this fine team which lost a close game in the playoff opening round, a record five players, including Zonca, are on the first team.

Hersey, which captured the MSL North crown and won its first-round playoff game, and Palatine, one of the most potent offenses in the area, have four players each.

St. Viator, winner of the East Suburban Catholic Conference title, places two each as does Arlington, Buffalo Grove and Prospect.

Past honorary captains were Hersey's Mark Zakula and Elk Grove's Don Weadley (1973), Elk Grove's Jeff Stewart (1972), St. Viator's Joe Bombicino (1971), Arlington's Scott Douglass (1970) and Conant's Jim McGraw (1969).

End of 'Russ Zonca Era' — athlete who did it all

by ART MUGALIAN

There may never be another one like Russ Zonca.

Brash, supremely confident, the Schaumburg quarterback had more than brashness and self-confidence. Zonca had the ability and the talent to pull it off.

Someday his records may be broken, but no one will ever dominate the Mid-Suburban League the way Russ did. These last two seasons are likely to be remembered as the Era of Zonca.

He did it all. He ran and passed for more career yardage than any other football player in the history of the Herald Area.

That alone would have been enough to earn Russ The Herald's award for Offensive Player of the Year.

But Zonca did so much more.

He showed a personal strength in the face of adversity and a cool self-control that made his teammates look to him for the big play. Zonca nearly always delivered.

His big plays, his field leadership, his steady hand and flawless execution — these were key ingredients in Schaumburg's ascent to consecutive MSL South titles and back-to-back berths in the IHSA state playoffs. These were the reasons why Zonca was twice honored by the MSL coaches as the player of the year.

And that is why Zonca is one of just two repeaters on The Herald's seventh annual All-Area team.

Primarily, Zonca was a runner. He rushed for 880 yards in 1975 for an average of 7.7 yards per carry.

When he put his head down and drove his powerful legs through two or more tacklers, Russ was a fullback.

When he cut and darted and accelerated past enemy defenders, Russ was a scatback.

Russ Zonca

And when he threw, Russ was a quarterback. He completed more than 50 per cent of his passes in two years and he racked up well over 1,000 yards through the air.

But he passed only when he had to. Running was his forte.

And Zonca wants to keep running in college.

"A lot of them want to move me to halfback," said Zonca, who has heard from several major college recruiters already. "I wouldn't mind that. I wouldn't want to be a drop-back passer in college. Right now I have a hard time picking out my receivers, and our line isn't too big."

Zonca's height (5-11) might be a disadvantage at quarterback, but his size (190 pounds) and his 4.6 speed make him an ideal rushing threat — wherever he plays.

Zonca loves football now, but he almost didn't come out for the sport his junior year. Several of his teammates "persuaded" Russ to join the squad.

"I had never done anything spectacular in football and I had always preferred baseball anyway," said Zonca. "I really didn't want to play football — I wanted to concentrate on baseball.

"But (Tom) Martino and the guys talked me into playing football," Russ admitted. "They said they'd kill me if I didn't."

Zonca played baseball anyway. He was the catcher on the Irving-Lake All-Star squad which went to the Senior Babe Ruth national finals at Seattle last August.

But football is his sport now and Russ is especially at home in the wishbone.

Schaumburg's wishbone offense gave Russ the opportunity to carry the ball almost as much as he wanted. But three other backfield spots belonged to Scott Mielke, Steve Knudson, and Mark Godinez — and they were no slouches either.

Schaumburg coach Bob Ferguson spent the better part of a season trying to get Zonca to pitch more often to his teammates. Ferguson told his quarterback: pitch it unless you can go all the way.

"Most of the time I carried the ball, I was wide open," Zonda pointed out. "But Coach wanted to give the other guys a chance and he didn't want me to get hurt."

Zonca would have carried the ball on every play if Ferguson had only asked.

It was Ferguson who molded Zonca out of raw material. He took a kid with good size, quickness and toughness and made him into an All-State player. He first taught him the rudiments of the wishbone, then progressed to the nuances, the subleties, the secrets.

When Ferguson was finished, he had made Russ Zonca.

There will never be another one.

Introducing our All-Area offensive team

JIM POPP
Palatine

The list of Jim's accomplishments is nearly endless: most yards gained rushing in one season in the history of the area, 1,214; most yards gained in the Mid-Suburban League, 1,109; most touchdowns ever for a Palatine player, 18; most points, 110; 1,443 yards rushing in two seasons; seven games over 100 yards rushing. But the 5-9, 165-pound senior did it all with a touch of style and a flare for modesty. Popp was this area's most exciting running back in a long time, but he never got a big head and he always thought first of his team.

BILL BOLGER
Schaumburg

A two-way lineman, Bill did his best work on offense, where he helped break open the holes for the Saxons' relentless running attack. The 5-11, 205-pound senior earned the accolades of Schaumburg head coach Bob Ferguson, who called Bolger "the best center ever at this school." At defensive tackle, Bolger provided the experience in an otherwise untested line that surprised even Ferguson by leading the league in fewest yards gained.

SCOTT TOPCZEWSKI
Hersey

Poise, execution, style — these are the words that come to the fore in describing Scott, the Huskies' premier quarterback. The 6-2, 175-pound senior was Hersey's only experienced offensive returnee, and he guided the team to the second round of the IHSA playoffs with the precision passing and cool leadership of a pro. Scott threw 10 TD passes, massed more than 1,100 yards through the air, and scored four TDs himself. "The best pure passer in the state," one enemy coach marvelled.

TIM ROBERTS
Elk Grove

Tim sprinted into the spotlight this season with two 100-plus yard efforts in the first three games of the season. The speedy (5-4, 150) back anchored the Grenadier offense with 922 yards on the ground and 42 points on the scoreboard. He highlighted his stature as the most explosive back returning next season when he shook off what was feared as a broken ankle to gain 387 yards as Elk Grove closed the season with three straight victories. "Tim's small, but he's one helluva halfback," said head coach Don Schnake.

SCOTT SCHOLZ
Schaumburg

A valued starter since his sophomore days at Schaumburg, Scott, made an outstanding contribution on offense and defense. The 6-2, 195-pounder combined quickness and strength in his dual role as tackle and linebacker. A key blocker in the Saxos' potent wishbone attack, Scholz's major efforts cmae on defense where he averaged a whopping 20 tackles per game. Moved from a defensive line position at the beginning of the year, he adjusted immediately to middle linebacker and anchored the Schaumburg defense, which was — not coincidently — the best in the MSL.

GEORGE BASTABLE
Buffalo Grove

"A super competitor," observed coach Grant Blaney of his two-way, three-year varsity veteran. Bastable on defense was No. 2 Bison with 75 tackles and assists during the season from his safety position. On offense the 5-11, 175 hustling wide receiver led the league in receptions (37) and reception yardage (513) with the sixth best season in MSL history and he ranks third on the all-time career list for pass receiving yardage.

CHRIS PETERSON
Prospect

An elusively quick (6-0, 200) guard on offense who was rated by his coach as an excellent trapper and the best blocker on the team, this Knight veteran also played defense at middle guard. He averaged over 10 tackles and assists for each of the nine-game campaign.

JOHN OLSZEWSKI
Palatine

The 6-1, 210-pound two-way tackle was another reason why Palatine enjoyed such an outstanding season. John drew constant praise from his coaches for the blocking work he did to clear the way for all-time area rushing leader Jim Popp. The big Pirate senior also did an excellent job on defense where he made 12 sacks and three fumble recoveries. Olszewski ranks ninth in his graduating class of 469.

MATT ZAKULA
Hersey

A converted quarterback, Matt warmed quickly to his task at hand — the workhorse fullback spot in Hersey's multiple offense. The burly (6-0, 200) senior gained 940 yards in 11 games, picking up the tough yards when the Huskies needed them. Zakula's constant presence helped to open the air lanes for Huskie QB Scott Topczewski. And the big fullback, whose older brother Mark won all-state honors, was also a key blocker on power sweeps.

TOM NORTH
Arlington

The most prolific pass receiver in Arlington's distinguished history, Tom caught 35 passes for 768 yards and 8 touchdowns — all school records. "I think his biggest asset is his intense concentration," head coach Chuck Haines said. "He has excellent hands, deceiving speed and he knows what to do after he catches the ball." With 10 grabs as a sophomore, the 6-foot-3, 171 pounder is already Arlington's career pass-receiving leader and he's only a junior!

BRIAN DeWYZE
Palatine

One of the co-captains on Palatine's 7-2 squad, Brian played an important part in helping the Pirate ground gainers set an all-time school record of 2,278 yards rushing. At 5-10 and 188 pounds, the senior guard went up against bigger linemen every week and still managed to move them aside with consistency. DeWyze was also Palatine's leading tackler with 25 solos and 149 assists. The linebacker smothered three fumbles, blocked two kicks and made 17 tackles behind the line.

Near misses on 2nd team very talented

If you could forget about the All-Area team for a moment this team of near misses — the second team — would look awfully good.

There were several players that just missed in the balloting by the Herald sports staff. Just a vote or two away from the select 24.

Hersey leads this 22-man squad with three players. Seven teams have two athletes each — Schaumburg, Arlington, Palatine, Buffalo Grove, Forest View, Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

Having one player each are St. Viator, Hoffman Estates, Fremd, Elk Grove and Wheeling.

Here are the fine athletes who deserve special menton:

Hersey — Joe Pusatera and Mark Knuttle on defense and John Haney on offense.

Schaumburg — Brad Crawford on offense and Gary Bolger on defense.

Palatine — Mark McCostlin and Bill Finlay on offense.

Buffalo Grove — Don Cornell and Doug Browning on defense.

Prospect — Terry Freeman and Dave Thoma on defense.

Rolling Meadows — Ken Barro on offense and Ted Tyk on defense.

Forest View — Joe Difatta on offense and Bill Simon on defense.

Arlington — Matt Shaughnessy on offense and Tom Berryman on defense.

Hoffman Estates — Dave Lipko on offense.

St. Viator — Jim Thompson on offense.

Elk Grove — Wayne Stoltzman on offense.

Fremd — Dave Ragains on defense.

Wheeling — George Raupp on offense.

Zettek — proven leader in football, classroom

by PAUL LOGAN

"In my opinion, he's the best down lineman in the state."

Sounds like a typical cheerleading coach exaggerating the talent of his high school star, doesn't it? In this case, it isn't.

Wayne Fiedler, St. Viator's defensive coach, isn't alone in praising his 6-foot-5, 230-pound defensive end, Scott Zettek. A host of hopeful college recruiters are also calling him the main man among Illinois prep defensive linemen.

"Sure I like it," says Scott of the accolades. "It's a great honor. But there are so many good linemen. I don't think I'm the best one. Sure I do some things well. But I'm sure other people can do other things very well, too."

From his humble answer, is there any question whether this 17-year-old St. Viator senior knows how to handle his success?

Scott Zettek

Zettek's outstanding season has earned the title of honorary captain of the Herald's All-Area defensive team. Schaumburg's Russ Zonca captains the offense.

It's the second straight year that one of the captains has come from this parochial school's outstanding football program. Quarterback Bobby Walsh was honored in 1974.

And for the fourth time in the seven-year history of the All-Star team, an Elk Grove Village resident is the recipient. Walsh, Don Weadley and Jeff Stewart were the others.

The name Zettek goes hand in hand with leadership and Elk Grove for Scott's father, Charles, is the village president. Scott inherits his love of the game from his dad, who was an all-city player at St. Rita.

Despite the personal glory he's achieved, Scott admits to being "a little disappointed" that his team didn't reach the state tourney goals the pre-season had promised. He and his Lion teammates won the East Suburban Catholic Conference title, but lost the playoff opener to Hersey.

Over the last half of the season, St. Viator had to play without potential All-State quarterback Jim Thompson. This put tremendous pressure on the Zettek-led defense.

"I think we answered well to the pressure," says Scott. "For myself and the team, we thrived on that."

Scott devoured ball carriers, making 64 solo tackles and 58 assists. Twenty-two times he threw ball carriers for losses.

"Sacking the quarterback is one of the most sensational plays on de-

BILL CASHMORE
Hersey

The 5-8, 180-pound linebacker was a mainstay of Hersey's rock-like defense. Cashmore represented one of the few solid spots in the Huskies' defensive alignments when the season began. "For two years Bill has been a sticker for us," said coach Joe Gliwa. "I know a lot of coaches who respect his ability as a linebacker." A sure tackler, Cashmore's pursuit led him to a lot of plays that other linebackers would not have been able to get to.

RICK PURCELL
Arlington

The Cardinals' second-leading tackler from his linebacker spot, Rick was a 32-minute man, also doubling as the team's offensive center. "He's probably the best blocking center we've had since All-Stater Jeff Selleck," coach Chuck Haines lauded. "He stays with his block until the whistle blows and after accomplishing his goal, he'd pick somebody else up, too." The 6-foot-1, 190-pound senior forced four fumbles and recovered two for Arlington's 7-2 outfit.

SCOTT MIELKE
Schaumburg

A three-year varsity veteran, Scott, excelled as a 48-minute man for the MSL South division champion Saxons. As a roving safetyman, the 6-1, 180-pounder never allowed a pass completion in his area. As an all-purpose halfback on offense, Mielke scored 10 touchdowns, rushed for more than 750 yards (an average of nearly seven yards per carry), and caught 10 passes for 184 yards. He returned punts and kickoffs and did the Saxons' punting. Mielke's speed, strength, and aggressiveness made him a major cog in the Schaumburg machine.

DON MEYER
Prospect

This two-year standout fullback was even more effective on defense, where he averaged better than 15 tackles and assists per game, snagged four pass interceptions and forced five fumbles. Big Don (6-2, 214) has ranked among the MSL's top 15 rushers for two consecutive seasons.

DAN YOURG
St. Viator

Dan helped anchor the Lions' defense from his tackle spot, making 40 solo and 50 assisted tackles. The 6-0, 200-pound senior also recovered three fumbles. Ordinarily, Dan would probably have been his team's leader on defense, but he played with All-State end and honorary Herald captain, Scott Zettek. Together they spelled double trouble for opponents. "Unfortunately, he doesn't have the size, but he has good quickness," said Wayne Fiedler, his defensive coach. "He runs the 40 in 4.8."

MARK JOHNSON
Hersey

Johnson was the one Huskie who constantly stood out on a defensive unit that went about its work effectively and unobtrusively. Johnson made the big plays — the fumble recoveries, the blocked punts, the quarterback sacks. The 6-0, 180-pound senior led the defense in shutting down the sweep week after week. Nobody ran wide on his side of the field. "Time after time Mark got up, played off another block, and made the tackle," said coach Joe Gliwa. "I think he's the best defensive end in the conference."

JIM THOMAS
Hoffman Estates

Exceptionally strong and very agile, Jim was a two-way performer for the Hawks as a defensive end and pulling guard. "The only thing he didn't do for us was punt," said Bill Gourley, his coach. "He was on every team we had." Jim was voted the most valuable player by his teammates. The 5-11, 180 pound senior also was very unselfish. He had a promising career ahead of him as a fullback several years ago, but "to show you what kind of a kid Jimmy is, we asked him if he would mind moving to guard because we were really hurting there, and he did."

JIM SMEARMAN
Palatine

Jim was an important factor for Palatine on offense and defense. The 6-1, 215-pound senior made 27 solo stops from his defensive tackle position, including 21 sacks. He recovered two fumbles and was credited with batting down three enemy passes. Smearman was also a devastating blocker at tight end and was a key to the Pirates' superb rushing game. An intelligent player, Smearman has made application to the Naval and Air Force academies.

BOB CONNELL
Schaumburg

The best cornerback in Schaumburg's football history, Bob earned high praise from his coaches all season long. The 5-11, 170-pounder made up for a suspected lack of speed with a hard-nosed aggressiveness and a great amount of desire. He took the lead in a Saxon secondary that was noted for its inexperience at the beginning of the season. As a unit, the Schaumburg defensive backfield allowed just 18 pass completions in 10 games. Connell permitted just one on his side of the field.

BEN ORCUTT
Buffalo Grove

This versatile junior (5,11, 178) rounded out his second year of varsity ball with 18 tackles and 12 assists, three interceptions and one fumble recovery on defense. Offensively, he finished among area leaders in rushing and scoring. He now ranks 11th on the MSL all-time career scoring list with a season yet to go.

SCOT UNGER
Maine West

The Warriors' gutty and determined running back had an exceptional offensive season with 153 carries for 729 yards despite missing parts of three games with injuries. Unger's finest totals were 129 yards against Maine South and a season-ending 133 against Niles West, a game the Warriors won. He gained 114 yards against Niles East and 121 against Niles North. Scot played defensive cornerback and was the Warriors' top kick return artist. His finest qualities are speed plus an exceptional knack for wiggling through a small hole.

Zettek — proven leader in football, classroom

by PAUL LOGAN

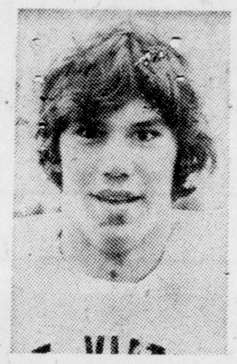
"In my opinion, he's the best down lineman in the state."

Sounds like a typical cheerleading coach exaggerating the talent of his high school star, doesn't it? In this case, it isn't.

Wayne Fiedler, St. Viator's defensive coach, isn't alone in praising his 6-foot-5, 230-pound defensive end, Scott Zettek. A host of hopeful college recruiters are also calling him the main man among Illinois prep defensive linemen.

"Sure I like it," says Scott of the accolades. "It's a great honor. But there are so many good linemen. I don't think I'm the best one. Sure I do some things well. But I'm sure other people can do other things very well, too."

From his humble answer, is there any question whether this 17-year-old St. Viator senior knows how to handle his success?



Scott Zettek

Zettek's outstanding season has earned the title of honorary captain of the Herald's All-Area defensive team. Schaumburg's Russ Zonca captains the offense.

It's the second straight year that one of the captains has come from this parochial school's outstanding football program. Quarterback Bobby Walsh was honored in 1974.

And for the fourth time in the seven-year history of the All-Star team, an Elk Grove Village resident is the recipient. Walsh, Don Weadley and Jeff Stewart were the others.

The name Zettek goes hand in hand with leadership and Elk Grove for Scott's father, Charles, is the village president. Scott inherits his love of the game from his dad, who was an all-city player at St. Rita.

Despite the personal glory he's achieved, Scott admits to being "a little disappointed" that his team didn't reach the state tourney goals the pre-season had promised. He and his Lion teammates won the East Suburban Catholic Conference title, but lost the playoff opener to Hersey.

Over the last half of the season, St. Viator had to play without potential All-State quarterback Jim Thompson. This put tremendous pressure on the Zettek-led defense.

"I think we answered well to the pressure," says Scott. "For myself and the team, we thrived on that."

Scott devoured ball carriers, making 64 solo tackles and 58 assists. Twenty-two times he threw ball carriers for losses.

"Sacking the quarterback is one of the most sensational plays on de-

BILL CASHMORE
Hersey

The 5-8, 180-pound linebacker was a mainstay of Hersey's rock-like defense. Cashmore represented one of the few solid spots in the Huskies' defensive alignments when the season began. "For two years Bill has been a sticker for us," said coach Joe Gliwa. "I know a lot of coaches who respect his ability as a linebacker." A sure tackler, Cashmore's pursuit led him to a lot of plays that other linebackers would not have been able to get to.

RICK PURCELL
Arlington

The Cardinals' second-leading tackler from his linebacker spot, Rick was a 32-minute man, also doubling as the team's offensive center. "He's probably the best blocking center we've had since All-Stater Jeff Selleck," coach Chuck Haines lauded. "He stays with his block until the whistle blows and after accomplishing his goal, he'd pick somebody else up, too." The 6-foot-1, 190-pound senior forced four fumbles and recovered two for Arlington's 7-2 outfit.

SCOTT MIELKE
Schaumburg

A three-year varsity veteran, Scott, excelled as a 48-minute man for the MSL South division champion Saxons. As a roving safetyman, the 6-1, 180-pounder never allowed a pass completion in his area. Esposito to visit area

Are you a Chicago Black Hawks fan? If so, then be sure to mark Dec. 6 on your calendar because that is the day Hawk goalie Tony Esposito will be visiting the St. Paul Federal Savings and Loan offices in Hanover Park and Rolling Meadows.

Esposito will meet with customers Saturday, Dec. 6 in Hanover Park from 9 to 10 a.m. and in Rolling Meadows from 10 to 11 a.m. He will sign autographs, answer questions and talk about the Hawks' season.

NU tickets available

NCAA tournament runnerup Kentucky, a team expected to challenge for the national basketball championship again this season, will be the home opener for the Northwestern Wildcats, Monday, Dec. 1.

Northwestern basketball tickets on a season basis are still available according to an announcement by ticket manager Ed Lutz. Season tickets are $33 as opposed to $37 for individual game costs.

Which means NU season ticket holders can see the powerful Kentucky Wildcats for free. For further information write the Ticket Manager, Northwestern University, 1501 Central Street, Evanston, Ill. 60201 or call 492-7070.

Tennis guru in Chicago

Timothy Gallwey, author of "The Inner Game of Tennis", will speak Sunday, Dec. 7 at the annual winter convention of the Midwest Division of the U.S. Professional Tennis Association at the Chicago Marriott Hotel, 8535 West Higgins Road.

Gallwey will speak about his approach to "yoga tennis" at 10:30 a.m. More than 200 midwest tennis pros are expected to attend the three-day convention, tennis clinics and seminars and display of tennis equipment which begins on Friday, Dec. 5. Registration is $20.

The Marriott is located five minutes from O'Hare Airport, conveniently off the Kennedy Expressway at the Cumberland exit.

From campuses nationwide

—John Clark, a 6-5 center from Maine West, will start in the pivot this year for the Northern Illinois University freshman basketball team.

—Al Gordon will handle the 118-pound weight chores for the Western Illinois University wrestling squad this winter. Gordon, a senior from Conant High School, appeared in the national tournament last season after posting a 10-2 record during the regular season.

—Ken Slepicka has completed another successful season of football for North Park College. In addition to setting the 1975 record for most yards passing in a single game (119 vs. Illinois Wesleyan) the former Wheeling gridder completed nearly half his passes and ranked second on the team in that category.

—Gary Pagano and Dave Peterson, from Wheeling, Steve Ninow and Mark Post of Schaumburg and Ward Wittmeyer from Arlington are expected to carry a big load for the Western Illinois gymnastics squad this winter.

—Two area gridders from the University of Dubuque (Iowa) were named to the All-Iowa Conference second team. They are receiver Rod Kiolbassa of Mount Prospect, who caught 60 passes this season, and defensive back Keith Chuipek of Des Plaines.

—Mark Wilkans of Buffalo Grove, Dave Carey of Arlington Heights and Bill Hare of Mount Prospect were all recently honored for their contributions to the Coe College (Iowa) football team for the 1975 season.

—Trudi Rebsamen of Mount Prospect and Barbara Wray of Arlington Heights are among the first women to receive athletic scholarships from Iowa State University. Rebsamen earned hers for track while Wray received hers for volleyball.

—Kent Lewis of Buffalo Grove has a tough assignment on his hands as he battles three other grapplers for a spot in the 142-pound weight class on the Indiana State University wrestling team.

Luther College finished 16th in the Division III NCAA Cross-Country meet Nov. 15 in Boston with the help of a 100th place finish by Damian Archbold, a junior harrier from Elk Grove.

—Bob Kelly, a sophomore linebacker from Wheeling at North Park College, has been nominated for the College Sports Information Directors of America Academic All-American College-Division football team.

—Mark Russo, who played his high school basketball at Forest View, is listed on the roster of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay cage squad for 1975-76.

—Dave Lemmon, from Conant High School, has received a varsity letter from the Illinois Wesleyan University football team.

Scott Zettek—a leader

fense," says Scott of his greatest gridiron pleasure. His success drew double team blocking from the opposition, but it also gave his teammates an easier route to the ball carrier.

Zettek was moved from defensive tackle to end this season because of his outstanding lateral movement. "It's the biggest asset I have."

Foes larned quickly that Scott could defend against the run outside despite his awesome size. "On a good day I can do a 4.8 (in the 40-yard dash)."

When every Big Ten and Big Eight school is seeking your services, picking the right university presents problems. He admits to being "a very confused young man" because he hasn't "developed the ability to say no yet" to the campus trips.

But when he makes his choice, top priority will be how good the college is educationally. Scott ranks 80th in a class of about 275, carrying a 4.1 or 'B' average.

Zettek says he's had fun playing football in high school and expects it will be that way in college. As for the pros, "that tends to turn me off. I could change my mind, but I couldn't see doing it as a profession."

Right now wrestling's on his mind. Scott says he wants "the state championship . . . no less than that. Last year the biggest problem was confidence. I was lucky I got downstate. This year I need to go downstate with skill, not luck."

Unlike some high school boys, Scott's hobby is weightlifting, not girls. Such dedication might make him an All-Stater in wrestling, too.

Arlington Elks Hoop Shoot set

The Arlington Heights Elks Lodge will conduct the Elks National Hoop Shoot Contest.

Boys and girls will compete in three age brackets at ages 8-9, 10-11 and 12-13 with the boys vs. boys and girls vs. girls. The Hoop Shoot will be held at Carl Sandburg Jr. High School in Rolling Meadows Dec. 13 at 10 a.m.

The top winner in each age group in the local contest will receive a trophy and will go on to compete in the district. If they advance in districts, the next stop is state and possibly the national finals held in Kansas City, Mo.

The Arlington and Palatine school districts are cooperating in the contest by allowing each school interested in the contest to conduct their own soot off in their respective school. Each school will send their six winners to the local shoot off.

Any schools which may not have been contacted but would like to participate are urged to contact Leonard Larsen at 358-3507.

Your new car will self-destruct in three years.
Or less. From rust.
No, your car is not rustproofed at the factory. Any factory. And undercoating alone may do more harm than good.
Have your car rustproofed by Ziebart.
We start by covering the entire underside with a sealant that locks itself in place and remains moistureproof indefinitely.
Then our factory-trained men use special tools to spray our sealant into all the hidden, boxed-in sections of a car's body, where rust damage begins.
And that helps to keep your new car from self-destructing before it's even paid for.

Zettek says he's had fun playing football in high school and expects it will be that way in college. As for the pros, "that tends to turn me off. I could change my mind, but I couldn't see doing it as a profession."

Right now wrestling's on his mind. Scott says he wants "the state championship . . . no less than that. Last year the biggest problem was confidence. I was lucky I got downstate. This year I need to go downstate with skill, not luck."

Unlike some high school boys, Scott's hobby is weightlifting, not girls. Such dedication might make him an All-Stater in wrestling, too.

Arlington Elks Hoop Shoot set

The Arlington Heights Elks Lodge will conduct the Elks National Hoop Shoot Contest.

Boys and girls will compete in three age brackets at ages 8-9, 10-11 and 12-13 with the boys vs. boys and girls vs. girls. The Hoop Shoot will be held at Carl Sandburg Jr. High School in Rolling Meadows Dec. 13 at 10 a.m.

The top winner in each age group in the local contest will receive a trophy and will go on to compete in the district. If they advance in districts, the next stop is state and possibly the national finals held in Kansas City, Mo.

The Arlington and Palatine school districts are cooperating in the contest by allowing each school interested in the contest to conduct their own soot off in their respective school. Each school will send their six winners to the local shoot off.

Any schools which may not have been contacted but would like to participate are urged to contact Leonard Larsen at 358-3507.

Your new car will self-destruct in three years.
Or less. From rust.
No, your car is not rustproofed at the factory. Any factory. And undercoating alone may do more harm than good.
Have your car rustproofed by Ziebart.
We start by covering the entire underside with a sealant that locks itself in place and remains moistureproof indefinitely.
Then our factory-trained men use special tools to spray our sealant into all the hidden, boxed-in sections of a car's body, where rust damage begins.
And that helps to keep your new car from self-destructing before it's even paid for.
It's Us. Or Rust.

St. Viator Relays Saturday

Lion swimmers tune up with win at Deerfield

St. Viator will be out to capture its 13th title in as many years when the Lions host their relays on Saturday, beginning at 2 p.m.

Coach John Fleck's Lions had a good warmup for their annual meet by capturing the Deerfield Relays on Wednesday with 50 points. In the process, St. Viator notched five meet records.

Placing second at Deerfield was Rockford East with 38. Then came Lake Forest (35), Deerfield (28), Wheeling (22) and Waukegan (6).

Notching the new marks were these Lions:

400 medley relay — Doug Peonski, Mark Rousche, Tim Bird and Mark Rowe in 3:51.9; 500 crescendo relay — Chris Stewart, Newcomer, Steve Meyers and Dan Peonski in 4:28.1; 300 individual medley relay — Steve Rogers, Rousche and Doug Peonski in 3:01.0; 300 backstroke relay — Mark Markwell, Steve King and Doug Peonski in 3:01.2; and the 400 freestyle relay — Rowe, Stewart, Dan Peonski and Newcomer.

St. Viator also had another first in the 400 Butterfly-Breaststroke Relay. Swimming to a 4:12.6 was the foursome of Rusche, Dan Peonski, Bird and Rick Perry.

Taking second was the 200 Freestyle Relay team of Stewart, Matt Kenney, Rowe and Newcomer in 1:33.7.

Mark Lockowitz and Mike Kordecki combined to finish fourth in diving.

Wheeling posted a second in the 300 Individual medley relay on the efforts of Dan Mackie, Marty Geisler and Tony Lauber.

The team of Ken Ferguson, Lauber and Mackie notched a third in the 300 backstroke relay.

Saturday's Viator Relays will have the most talented field ever. Fenwick, a second-place finisher to Hinsdale Central at last year's state tournament, leads the field.

They were very strong last year and they're very strong this year," said Fleck of Fenwick.

Also on hand will be Hersey, Buffalo Grove and Loyola.

"If we win, it will be on depth," said Fleck. Fenwick figures to have the edge in varsity strength, but the St. Viator coach is hoping the Lions' talented sophomore and freshman swimmers will swing the balance in favor of the hosts.

Early injuries, schedule hit Harper in 4-5 season

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Harper had the dubious distinction in 1975 of placing 10 players on various all-state and all-conference teams while suffering through a losing season.

The irony of the situation isn't lost on head coach John Eliasik, who saw his team improve to the point of state title contention only to finish at 4-5, good for third place in the North Central Community College Conference (N4C).

"Our record would have been better," Eliasik said, "if we hadn't been devastated by offensive injuries early in the season. We played a tough schedule of teams in-state and then Grand Rapids, one of the best out-of-state schools we could play. It was the toughest schedule we've had since I've been here."

Harper stumbled early in the season, losing close and bitter games to Wright and Kennedy-King in their first three outings.

Eliasik, summing up the prospects for next season touched upon the reason for Harper's early troubles, when he said, "So much of a team's success depends on the quarterback (we get). We could have outstanding talent but if we don't have a good quarterback it's like having everything on a car except the steering wheel."

Dave Patterson, who was a reserve quarterback as a freshman in 1974, was afixed to the Harper steering shaft at the season's beginning. More at home as a kicker and punter, for which the Maine South grad was honored with places on the all-N4C and all-state teams this year, Patterson toiled at quarterback until the return of Gary Mueller.

Mueller provided the missing click to Harper's offense, throwing for 546 yards and eight touchdowns.

He was also an honorable mention all-conference quarterback. Joining him on the honorable mention squad, and in the Harper backfield, was freshman Butch Allen. Allen, who will be back next year, rushed for a team-high 481 yards.

Clearing the holes for him and earning all-conference recognition were linemen Jim Glueckert and Jerry Parker.

Mueller's favorite receiver was another all-conference performer, flanker DuWayne Mill. Mill, a freshman from Warren Twp., caught 24 balls for 287 yards to lead the Hawks in both departments.

Tight end Kevin Kristick, another freshman, caught nine passes and hit hard enough on defense at linebacker to make both the all-conference and all-state teams.

The Harper defense, which adopted the nickname Tidal Wave halfway through the season and was the Hawks' one constant strength from the opening practice, was anchored by sophomore middle guard Bill Nash.

"Bill exemplifies everything we'd like in a football player," Eliasik said. "He was the leader this year and the team recognized it by voting him the Most Valuable Player.

"This whole group of sophomores really had a tremendous attitude. There was never any question about what they were there for. All they wanted was to make Harper the best football team they were capable of being."

Nash was voted to the all-conference team along with defensive end Kevin Koppari and defensive back Dugan McLaughlin. Koppari and McLaughlin also were tabbed for the all-state team.

Harper, DuPage battle

With all five starters back from a 20-7 season in 1974, the College of DuPage will wear the favorite tag as they host their holiday tournament beginning today at 7:15 p.m. and concluding on Saturday.

The Harper Hawks, fresh from an invigorating 81-75 win over Lake County earlier this week, will match up with the tall and talented Chaparrals in the second game of the first round Friday at 8:45 p.m.

Lake County and Waubonsee will be paired in the opening game.

"We've won this tournament two years in a row," said DuPage coach Dick Walters, "and I'd like to think we're the favorites again for this one.

"But Harper is the type of team that you have to watch out for. We saw them against Lake County and they looked like an improved team from last year.

"We have to come expecting to play."

Harper will find themselves in a battle of the boards that is lopsided in the Chaps' favor. Scott Green, at 6-4 the tallest Harper player, will be contending for rebounds with a DuPage front line of 6-10 center Jim Coutre and a pair of 6-6 forwards, Scott Daum and Gary Walkup.

The losers of the first round games will play for third place Saturday beginning at 7:15 with the championship game starting at 8:45.

The tournament will be held on the DuPage campus with an admission charge of $2 for adults, $1 for students with IDs and $.50 for children.

DuPage has played just one game this year, smacking Olivet-Harvey 104-64.

"We'll be disappointed if we don't win it," Walters said.

Early injuries, schedule hit Harper in 4-5 season

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Harper had the dubious distinction in 1975 of placing 10 players on various all-state and all-conference teams while suffering through a losing season.

The irony of the situation isn't lost on head coach John Eliasik, who saw his team improve to the point of state title contention only to finish at 4-5, good for third place in the North Central Community College Conference (N4C).

"Our record would have been better," Eliasik said, "if we hadn't been devastated by offensive injuries early in the season. We played a tough schedule of teams in-state and then Grand Rapids, one of the best out-of-state schools we could play. It was the toughest schedule we've had since I've been here."

Harper stumbled early in the season, losing close and bitter games to Wright and Kennedy-King in their first three outings.

Eliasik, summing up the prospects for next season touched upon the reason for Harper's early troubles, when he said, "So much of a team's success depends on the quarterback (we get). We could have outstanding talent but if we don't have a good quarterback it's like having everything on a car except the steering wheel."

Dave Patterson, who was a reserve quarterback as a freshman in 1974, was afixed to the Harper steering shaft at the season's beginning. More at home as a kicker and punter, for which the Maine South grad was honored with places on the all-N4C and all-state teams this year, Patterson toiled at quarterback until the return of Gary Mueller.

Mueller provided the missing click to Harper's offense, throwing for 546 yards and eight touchdowns.

He was also an honorable mention all-conference quarterback. Joining him on the honorable mention squad, and in the Harper backfield, was freshman Butch Allen. Allen, who will be back next year, rushed for a team-high 481 yards.

Clearing the holes for him and earning all-conference recognition were linemen Jim Glueckert and Jerry Parker.

Mueller's favorite receiver was another all-conference performer, flanker DuWayne Mill. Mill, a freshman from Warren Twp., caught 24 balls for 287 yards to lead the Hawks in both departments.

Tight end Kevin Kristick, another freshman, caught nine passes and hit hard enough on defense at linebacker to make both the all-conference and all-state teams.

The Harper defense, which adopted the nickname Tidal Wave halfway through the season and was the Hawks' one constant strength from the opening practice, was anchored by sophomore middle guard Bill Nash.

"Bill exemplifies everything we'd like in a football player," Eliasik said. "He was the leader this year and the team recognized it by voting him the Most Valuable Player.

"This whole group of sophomores really had a tremendous attitude. There was never any question about what they were there for. All they wanted was to make Harper the best football team they were capable of being."

Nash was voted to the all-conference team along with defensive end Kevin Koppari and defensive back Dugan McLaughlin. Koppari and McLaughlin also were tabbed for the all-state team.

Matmen face big weekend; four tourneys

Three wrestling teams to watch — Arlington, Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows — head for action at Niles East this weekend as the mat season moves into high gear.

The 16-team Trojan invitational is one of four tournaments involving area wrestling squads this weekend. Hoffman Estates is returning to the Rich South Invite Friday and Saturday and Conant will be at a gathering hosted by Eastern Illinois University.

Tomorrow Harper travels to Madison, Wis. for the Northern Open.

The Mustangs, in previous years among the first schools to jump into action, are the last local outfit to begin combat this winter. Coming off a 17-3-1 mark, Meadows will be headed up by vets Jim Carlstrom and Pete Martin and figure to be a contender again in the Mid-Suburban League.

The Cardinals and Bison both have been tagged for losses already this year (Arlington fell to West Leyden, Buffalo Grove to Barrington) but both have some exceptionally strong individual returnees. Redbirds Dan Weber (112) and Dan Kennedy (132) each carded a pair of pins last weekend while John Preissing was winning twice.

Bison Tim Foley (119), Rich Wilhelm (132) and Doug Browning (155) are all returning sectional qualifiers who won impressively over the Bronchos.

The Niles tourney, which runs all day today and Saturday, was won by East Leyden last year and they along with Glenbrook's North and South, York, Maine East and Evanston are all returning. Arlington and Buffalo Grove are newcomers but coach John Ellis and his Mustangs last year rolled to a second place finish at Niles.

The Rich tourney has been enlarged and considerably strengthened for coach Angelo Testone and his Hawk team which is back nearly intact. Competing without seniors in 1974-75, Hoffman still fashioned a respectable 3-5 mark against non-conference competition and they promise to be much improved this season, led by Darcy Rice (105), Chad McCreary (155) and Jim Thomas (167).

The 32-team Rich South gathering features the likes of defending state champ Bloom and a Romeoville unit with two returning individual state titlists.

Rams, Bills win 'turkey' tilts

Quarterback James Harris threw for three touchdowns, connecting with Harold Jackson twice, and the Los Angeles Rams clinched their third straight NFC Western Division title with a 20-0 Thanksgiving Day victory over the Detroit Lions.

A national television audience watched the Rams improve their record to 9-2 and also saw Detroit's faint playoff hopes dimmed further as the Lions fell to 6-5, Los Angeles only let Detroit cross the 50 yard line three times, once in the first half and twice in the second.

Harris threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to ex-Lion Ron Jessie in the first quarter and connected twice with Jackson in the second half with throws of 17 and 38 yards. Harris wound up with 11 completions in 24 attempts for 157 yards while Jackson caught five of those passes for a total of 106 yards.

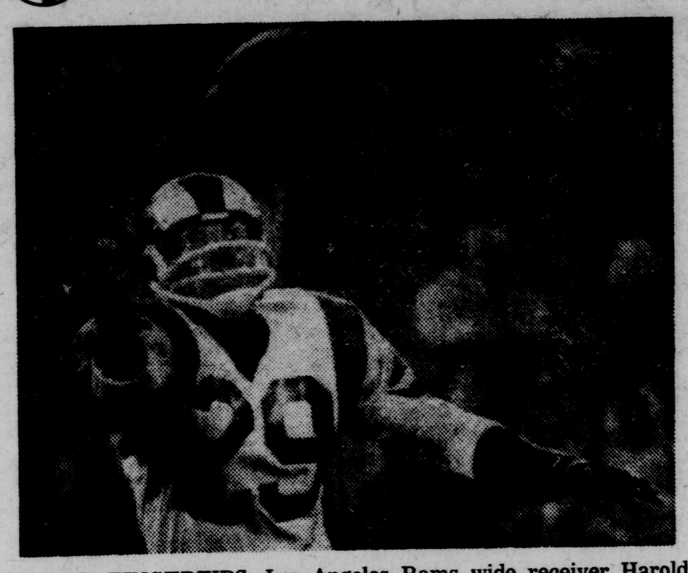
The Rams played near flawless football, fumbling twice but only losing it once, while the Los Angeles defense picked off two Joe Reed passes in handing the Lions their first shutout loss since Washington defeated them 20-0 on Thanksgiving Day in 1973. Los Angeles got its first shutout this season after chalking up two last year.

With O. J. Simpson held in check, big Jim Braxton cut loose for three touchdowns and 160 yards rushing Thursday, the best day of his five-year career, to lead Buffalo to a 32-14 victory over the listless St. Louis Cardinals, keeping the Bills' playoff hopes alive.

Braxton's final score came on a one-yard run early in the fourth quarter which was set up by Tony Greene's interception of a Jim Hart pass. Greene returned the ball 37 yards to the one and the 242-pound Braxton took it over two plays later.

Dwight Harrison also set up two scores with interceptions as the much maligned Buffalo Defensive secondary held Hart to 13 completions in 31 attempts for 156 yards with 4 interceptions to humiliate St. Louis in the nationally televised game.

The Cardinals, leaders in the National Football Conference's East Division, held Simpson to 85 yards in 23 carries but were unable to contain Braxton and Bills' quarterback Joe Ferguson.



FOILED FINGERTIPS. Los Angeles Rams wide receiver Harold Jackson stretches for a pass from quarterback James Harris during LA's 20-0 slamming of the Detroit Lions Thursday. This pass fell incomplete but Harris and Jackson teamed up for a pair of touchdown tosses during the day.

Bulls trade Thurmond, Garrett

The Chicago Bulls, hoping to halt a nine-game losing streak, obtained forward Jack Marin from Buffalo Thursday and traded center Nate Thurmond and reserve forward Roland Garrett to Cleveland for center-forward Steve Patterson and rookie forward Eric Fernsten.

Marin, 31, is a two-time NBA all-star with a career scoring mark of 16 points a game and a lifetime shooting percentage of 47 per cent. The Bulls obtained Marin in a trade for future considerations.

Patterson, 27, a five-year veteran, has a career scoring mark of 4.6.

Fernsten, a 6-foot-9, 210-pounder, was drafted on the fourth round this year out of the University of San Francisco. In three varsity seasons, he averaged 9½ rebounds and 9 points a game.

'All' picks delight some but disturb many others

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

There never has been, nor ever will be, a perfect all-conference or all-area or all-state or all-American team.

Judgments are subjective. People see things differently.

Knowing this, and also knowing how people react when these "all" teams are published, I can say with utmost confidence that somebody out there is blasting The Herald today.

It's all-area time in football and that should bring the critics out of the woodwork.

"What do they know anyway?" a dad or mom or son or coach will say while scanning the annual all-area football team that appears in today's sports section.

"How could they possibly leave Bobby Superstar off the all-area team? Heck, they're just sportswriters. What do they know? They don't know a zig out from a zig in."

Now that's not true. A zig out is when the receiver cuts to the outside, cuts back to the inside, and then makes his final break to the outside.

Or does he cut to the inside before cutting to the outside? Hmmmm.

Walter Camp is the one who put writers on the spot. He had the bright idea around the turn of the century to pick an all-American team in college football.

Probably nothing except the argument over which school deserves the national championship has aroused football partisans as much over the years as the All-America selections.

Today there are so many different appraisers that a player at almost any big-name school who shows talent will win some kind of recognition. But in the old days it was a matter of impressing Walter Camp. If a player did very well in a particular game which was witnessed by Camp, he might be placed on the All-America first team on the basis of one afternoon's inspired play.

Camp's selections started an avalanche of "all" teams. The nation has been suffering from the all-star syndrome ever since. You can find all-star teams for gardening and cooking, running and walking.

Our society is geared to achievement. Youngsters get report cards at a very early age and no matter what symbols or numbers are used to measure the degree of success there is always a basis for comparison.

In sports the victories and defeats are quite public, the difference between the best and merely good quite visible. The "all" team is a recognition for the long hours, for aches and pains, highs and lows, victories and defeats.

No matter how hard the Herald sports department tries to be fair in its all-area selections — and some of the debates can be pretty heated — somebody, undoubtedly a lot of somebodys, always gets hurt. Somebody has to be left off.

For the young men who make it, I'm sure their success is a big cornerstone in some character building. But I also have a strong feeling that the young men who were left off, especially those who obviously were in strong contention, are in a situation where there is the potential for even greater character building.

Acceptance of any all-star honor is easy. There is a story filled with glowing adjectives, a picture in the paper, a certificate, praise. Everybody talks about the all-stars, but what about the others?

Acceptance of missing out on all this is not easy, especially when you're 17 or 18 years old. Acceptance of the quirks of the system, of the fact that a segment of society has labeled somebody else more of an achiever than you, must be difficult.

A lot of young men feel pretty low when they don't make these all-conference or all-area teams, but the resiliency of youth is amazing. It's all very ood when a youngster reaches a plateau of success, but any "all" team should be taken in its proper perspective.

For those who are left off, who do understand and do realize that what is derived from participation in football is much more than an all-area certificate, the character building may be more solid, more permanent than it is for the all-star.

Anthony series available

Special reprints of the Earl Anthony bowling series that appeared in the Herald are now available.

The four-part series features the stance, arm swing, delivery and approach, and delivery and release.

Anthony is the most successful performer on professional tour today, the first bowler to crack the $100,000 barrier in winnings for a single season.

Anyone interested in copies of his series may pick up the reprints starting Friday at the receptionist desk of the Herald offices, 217 W. Campbell and 114 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights; and 601 W. Golf, Mount Prospect.

Earl Anthony

Reprints may also be obtained by calling the Herald at 394-2300 or by writing Bowling Series, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Special awards program highlights soccer year

Awards were presented to officials, coaches and players as the Palatine Celtic Soccer Club closed out its fall season with a special recognition program at Palatine High School.

Each player in the program is rewarded for his individual efforts on the field, and trophies were presented to every girl and boy on the team rosters. There were first, second and third place trophies for those players on the winning teams in each division and a general participation trophy for everyone else.

In addition, the two 16-and-under teams, Celtic White and Celtic Green, who played in the Midwest Suburban League, were given first (white) and second (Green) trophies according to their division finish.

Everyone in the Celtic program also received 1975 patches.

The club held its first skills contest this fall. The objective was to try to improve levels of skills necessary to the game of soccer. The three winners in each division received shirts printed with the club logo on the front and "Palatine Soccer" on back.

Receiving the special shirts were Jennifer Wilson, Nancy Shellander, Sharon Scolpino, Laurie Small, Lori Solimene, Dana Howard, Dan Raby, Chad Brewer, Michael Lopresti, Tom Mueller, Rich Drozd, Billy Murphy, John Chope, Craig Harding, Steve Mick, Tom Seiter, Chris Braun, Jeff Seiter, Kurt Blechner, Tom Meyer and Brad Byker.

Special awards also were presented to several adults who played key roles in the program.

Jack Marsland, retiring president, received a plaque which read: "The Palatine Celtic Soccer Club, in expressing their appreciation for outstanding efforts and achievements in the advancement of the sport of soccer and for his dedicated service to the youth of the community, thank Jack Marsland, President 1974-75."

Retiring board members who received plaques were Marge McKenna, treasurer; Bill Privett, director of referees; Steve Norys, director of traveling teams; Tom O'Driscoll, match secretary; Bill McElman, director of fields and equipment; and Jack Marsland.

Ed Dittrich of Suburban Sports and Jorgen Bo-Hansen also received awards as traveling team sponsors.

Tom Schuman from the junior field and Ted Ruzbasan from the senior group received The Gene Byker Coaches Award. The citation read:

"We now have a very special award named in honor of our friend and long-time supporter, Gene Byker. At the time of Gene's death a year ago the board of directors voted to establish a special award to be given to the outstanding coach of the year. With 37 teams and so many devoted and enthusiastic coaches, picking one individual was a very difficult task. Not one of our many coaches has ever failed us and each of them has shown the qualities of sportsmanship and service we are honoring with this plaque. So we hope that every coach will feel he or she is sharing in this award."

The master plaque will be displayed at the Palatine Park District, and smaller replicas were given to the two coaches.

Resume Service

HOW IMPORTANT ARE RESUMES?

A resume is your first impression with a potential employer. It is the only effective method to present your credentials when applying for a job.

Unfortunately, a resume will frequently ELIMINATE an applicant than it will secure the all-important interview.

Your resume will compete for attention with those of many other applicants for that interview.

How can you overcome this obstacle? Your resume must be composed so that it DEMANDS attention and at once presents you as a logical choice for employment.

How can you make sure that your resume will generate more interviews?

Phone for details or a no-obligation appointment. Since 1957, we have assisted men & women on their first job, to the senior executive.

Resume Service

HOW IMPORTANT ARE RESUMES?

A resume is your first impression with a potential employer. It is the only effective method to present your credentials when applying for a job.

Unfortunately, a resume will frequently ELIMINATE an applicant than it will secure the all-important interview.

Your resume will compete for attention with those of many other applicants for that interview.

How can you overcome this obstacle? Your resume must be composed so that it DEMANDS attention and at once presents you as a logical choice for employment.

How can you make sure that your resume will generate more interviews?

Phone for details or a no-obligation appointment. Since 1957, we have assisted men & women on their first job, to the senior executive.

Vietnamese give thanks for their new homeland

United Press International

Tuoc Van Nguyen watched the snow swirl outside his North Side apartment and shuddered.

"OHHHH, no more, no more," he groaned. Then he flashed a big smile.

"I like it here," he said. "I heard somebody talking about all the snow, but I'll wait and see."

UNTIL A WEEK ago, Nguyen, a former lieutenant colonel in the South Vietnamese military, his wife and their eight children had never seen snow. Now they were celebrating a white Thanksgiving American style — with an old-fashioned turkey dinner.

Inside their simple main floor flat, Nguyen's 10-year-old daughter Dung grinned sheepishly and recited what she learned in school:

"Thanksgiving is a day of thank you to god," she said. "Thanksgiving has turkey and pumpkin pie. On Thanksgiving, I pray for my family — and for my sponsors."

More than 15 Chicago families, most of them members of the St. Ferdinand Catholic Church where the Nguyens attend mass, are acting as guardians for the family. The sponsors are bracing the Van Nguyens for a long Midwest winter by clothing them in warm jackets and mittens and helping them adjust to the hardships of a big city.

UNTIL TWO WEEKS ago, all went well. Then someone threw rocks through two of the apartment windows and ripped apart the mailbox marked "Nguyen."

"We really don't think it was because they are Vietnamese," said Mrs. Lu Caravette, a mother of 14 whom the Nguyens consider one of their closest friends. "But when that happened, they did not say they wanted to go back to Vietnam. They just said they wanted to move. We told them it could happen in any neighborhood.

"I think the more the neighbors know them, people will realize they are a fine family."

Nguyen, 45, works as a janitor at Weber High School. His two oldest sons, Khanh, 23, and Trang, 21, also have jobs and are starting second jobs so they can save money for college. The family also qualifies for nominal food stamp assistance.

"NGUYEN'S WIFE, Hoa, is taking weekly classes in English, while the six younger children are enrolled in Catholic schools.

"The father is doing very well," Mrs. Caravette said. "He's adjusted . . . and he's holding his family together very well."

Thanksgiving Eve, Mrs. Caravette's daughter and four of her high school classmates presented the family with a food basket containing sweet potatoes, cranberries and other goodies.

Khanh Van Nguyen then phoned Mrs. Caravette and announced he was bringing over "a turkey" in appreciation.

"No, you shouldn't," Mrs. Caravette told him, fearing the Van Nguyens had overspent their tight budget.

But he insisted, and took the bus to her West Side home, dropping off a miniature chocolate turkey to say "thanks."

VIETNAMESE refugees get ready for their first American-style Thanksgiving as they wait for their turkey to thaw on Thanksgiving Eve. Tuoc Van Nguyen, 45, a former lieutenant colonel in the Viet Nam military poses happily with his wife and seven of their eight children.

N.Y. takes biggest tax bite

by United Press International

New York state residents remained the most tax-burdened people in the nation, breaking the $900 barrier in per capita taxes for the first time in history.

It was the ninth straight year New Yorkers have had the dubious distinction of being the most heavily taxed Americans.

The Commerce Clearing House reported Wednesday that New Yorkers paid an average of $952 per person in state and local taxes in fiscal 1974, well ahead of Massachusetts residents who averaged $767 to replace California residents in second place for the year. Hawaii residents averaged $765 and Californians $739.

ON THE OTHER end of the list were Alabama residents whose per capita state and local taxes amounted to only $383. Alabamans edged out Arkansas residents, who were the lowest taxed in 1973 but increased to $384 in fiscal 1974. Other states with per capita tax burdens of less than $450 were South Carolina $422; Tennessee $424; Mississippi $425; Oklahoma $428 and Kentucky $441.

CCH, which reports on taxes, business laws and related developments, said based on latest Census Bureau data Americans paid an average of $618 in taxes to state and local governments in fiscal 1974 — a jump of $41 per person from fiscal 1973.

The median burden state was Kansas with $573 — a jump of $59 in the median burden from fiscal 1973.

Increases in per capita taxes ranged from a low of $3 in Utah to a high of $117 in Alaska. Connecticut alone registered a tax drop, $38 to $689.

NEW YORK led in the total state and local taxes collected, $17.15 billion, followed by California with $15.95 billion, Illinois with $7.8 billion, Pennsylvania, $7.3 billion and Michigan $6.18 billion.

The per capita state and local tax burdens by state for fiscal 1974 with fiscal 1973 figures in parentheses:

New York state residents remained the most tax-burdened people in the nation, breaking the $900 barrier in per capita taxes for the first time in history.

It was the ninth straight year New Yorkers have had the dubious distinction of being the most heavily taxed Americans.

The Commerce Clearing House reported Wednesday that New Yorkers paid an average of $952 per person in state and local taxes in fiscal 1974, well ahead of Massachusetts residents who averaged $767 to replace California residents in second place for the year. Hawaii residents averaged $765 and Californians $739.

Alabamans edged out Arkansas residents, who were the lowest taxed in 1973 but increased to $384 in fiscal 1974. Other states with per capita tax burdens of less than $450 were South Carolina $422; Tennessee $424; Mississippi $425; Oklahoma $428 and Kentucky $441.

CCH, which reports on taxes, business laws and related developments, said based on latest Census Bureau data Americans paid an average of $618 in taxes to state and local governments in fiscal 1974 — a jump of $41 per person from fiscal 1973.

The median burden state was Kansas with $573 — a jump of $59 in the median burden from fiscal 1973.

Increases in per capita taxes ranged from a low of $3 in Utah to a high of $117 in Alaska. Connecticut alone registered a tax drop, $38 to $689.

NEW YORK led in the total state and local taxes collected, $17.15 billion, followed by California with $15.95 billion, Illinois with $7.8 billion, Pennsylvania, $7.3 billion and Michigan $6.18 billion.

MRS. BRAUN CAPTURED her husband's personality in the vignette at left she made for him. The fireplace is made out of brick size pieces of thin cardboard glued to sturdier cardboard and then painted. The lighthouse scene is from a large calendar print and the sailing ship was lifted from a magazine ad. The table was fashioned out of a champagne wire cage.

Miniature vignettes

Settings for wee people

by GENIE CAMPBELL

No one I know has ever met a Lilliputian. But if they should exist, as Gulliver maintains, they'd clamor, I'm sure, to crawl inside one of Susan Rogers Braun's miniature vignettes.

Great settings for very wee people, vignettes are perfectly scaled down to Lilliputian size. A tiny cushion stuffed with a cotton ball resting on a champagne wire cage makes a dandy old-fashioned ice cream stool.

A spent shell is a perfect beer mug and a gold button is just right for a plate when company arrives.

But Mrs. Braun, who has been designing vignettes for the past 10 years, didn't exactly have Gulliver's little friends in mind when four and a half years ago she started gathering her notes to write a book on the subject published this fall by Charles Scribner's Sons ($14.95).

"MINIATURE VIGNETTES" is not only a handsome volume of beautifully crafted vignettes, many of them real collector items, but also doubles as a text providing straight forward, easy-to-follow instructions in creating a vignette from the beginning planning stages to the finished product.

A cross between a diorama and a picture, vignettes are actually life-size settings reduced in scale, usually one inch to one foot, with a depth of less than six inches.

Yet unlike in doll houses and other miniature rooms reduction in size must be painstakingly scaled to avoid distortion.

"Only if the vignette is scaled correctly will the realism of the subject be preserved," said the Palatine artisan.

"Everyone is interested in life on a smaller scale. Model trains, ecology boxes . . . miniature vegnettes are just another form of the mini work," she continued.

"BUT IT ENTAILS more than just assembling. It involves working with special problems."

Though miniature vignettes can be as much as six inches in depth, which still doesn't offer much room in which to work, Mrs. Braun usually confines her pieces to four inches or less. If they are deeper than four inches, they become too cumbersome to hang on the wall.

Figures are seldom used in miniature vignettes.

"The object is to try and create an atmosphere where someone is just about ready to enter or has just left. It is much more challenging to create signs of life and human occupancy without using actual figures," said Mrs. Braun.

When she first picked up the craft, there was very little written on the subject. There were lessons available. Mrs. Braun learned the ins and outs mostly by trial and error.

SHE PROFESSES no artistic training through prior to miniature vignettes, Mrs. Braun worked in traditional decoupage, egg decorating and other two-dimensional crafts completed in between her duties as housewife and mother.

Only miniature vignettes soon took over and occasionally the dining room table would never get cleared off for dinner, admitted Mrs. Braun.

Though forced in the beginning to make all her vignette furnishings because they simply weren't available to buy, Mrs. Braun still feels it is more of an artistic challenge to do so. And of course, much cheaper. Occasionally she will purchase an item if she can't make it herself. Seldom, however, does she find it necessary.

Old beads can be turned into elegant perfume decanters. Hooks and eyes are great for drawer and door handles. A chandelier in one of Mrs. Braun's vignettes was completely fashioned out of old pieces of small hardware found around the house. Charm bracelets provide all sorts of unique items and modeling compound is a tremendous aid.

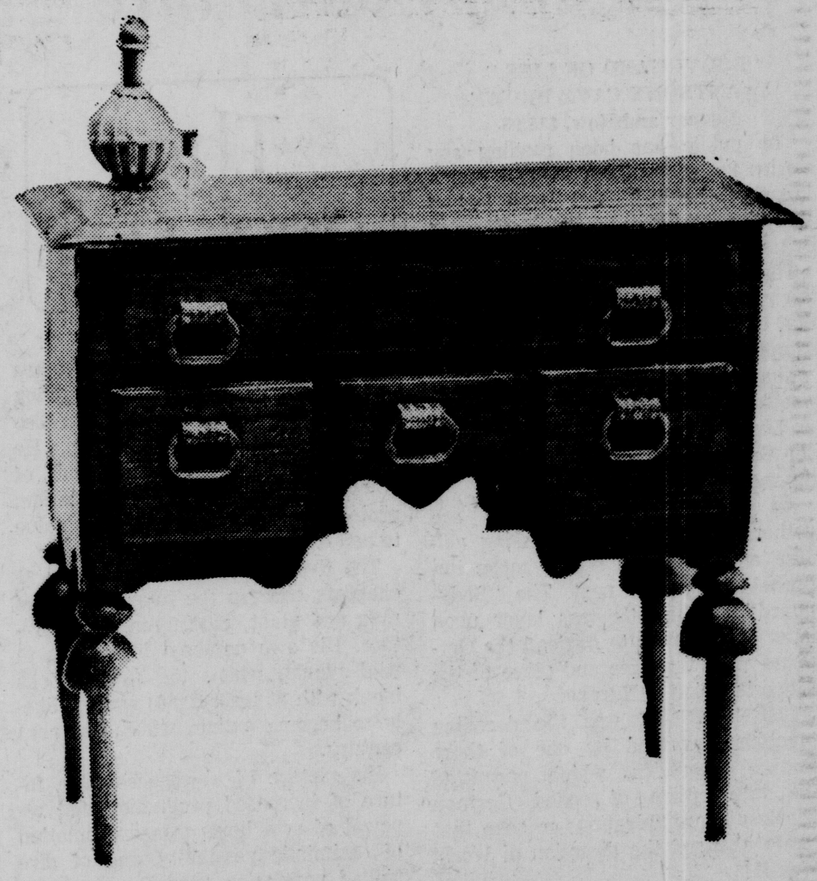
ONE FAVORITE technique of Mrs. Braun's is putting a landscape view in the background of a vignette to automatically build in added perspective. Old photographs, postcards, even scenes cut out of Christmas cards are likely sources.

Recently Mrs. Braun has been spending a great deal of time in the library researching information and pictures on colonial Williamsburg. She just completed an authentic miniature reproduction of the apothecary shop as it looked 200 years ago and she is beginning to build the old millinery shop.

While there are numerous books on the market telling how to construct doll houses and even miniature furniture, Mrs. Braun feels "Miniature Vignettes" is one of the few geared to the complete neophyte who doesn't have access to power tools. In fact, a craft knife, razor saw and sharp pencils are the only tools Mrs. Braun requires.

"I WANTED THIS to be a how-to-book so if some little girl in the middle of Nebraska has no supply or teacher available, she could still make a vignette using my book as a guide."

That's more than Mrs. Braun had when she first started out.



THE WILLIAMSBURG APOTHECARY Shop is authentically correct. Mrs. Braun used modeling compound to make many of the bottles and tobacco canisters. Jewelry findings and a large brass bead were used to make the chandelier which is in exact proportion to the real one. Patterns to make the William and Mary Lowboy at right and the grandfather clock are in the book.

Aretha Franklin's 'You' like breath of spring

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Aretha Franklin's new album, "You" (Atlantic records), is a welcome breath of spring from its warm cover to the mighty fine music inside.

Particularly on a series of fine, torch ballads, she recaptures the power and emotion with which she electrified audiences nearly a decade ago. The new "I'm Not Strong Enough to Love You Again" is every bit as fine as her classic "I Never Loved a Man (the Way I Love You)" of 1967 or similar hits of that period.

Other strong ballads in the new album are "You," Van McCoy's "Walk Softly" and "As Long As You Are There."

Two fine rockers help to round out this outstanding collection. Her own song and hit single, "Mr. D.J. (5 For the D.J.)," gives her the chance to do some of her best, controlled shouting and "You Make My Life" appears a natural for the disco markets.

Among those responsible for the album's success are arranger Gene Page and long-time producer Jerry Wexler, who share the duty with Franklin.

OTHER NEW soul releases include:

"City of Angels" by the Miracles (Tamla records). Group newcomer Billy Griffin and veteran Pete Moore co-authored this concept album. The result is predictably fine. With good writing, singing and music. Most of the songs can stand on their own, too.

The plot concerns a country boy named Michael who comes to Los Angeles to find his former girl friend and becomes a singing star after he arrives. "Ain't Nobody Straight in L.A." is about homosexuality, one of several songs that deal with aspects of life in the city.

"House Party" by the Temptations (Gordy records). For the second straight album, the Temps use a variety of producers to good advantage. Outstanding songs are "It's Just a Matter of Time," "What You Need Most" and "If I don't Love You This Way" (an excellent potential single).

There also are two powerful story-songs, such as the group pioneered with "Papa Was a Rolling Stone." "Ways of a Grown-Up Man" is about a boy who moves to the city, leaving his mother, and "Johnny Porter" is about a young murderer on the run.

"HIGH ON YOU" by Sly Stone (Epic records). Sly offers the expected degrees of funk but also some ballads, one of which, at least, is a failure. The title song and "Crossword Puzzle" are the best in this seemingly transitional album. Some of Sly's lyrics deal with drugs and premarital sex but take no stand. Too, while much of the writing may appear gloomy, he says he can find security in his family ("My World").

"In the Slot" by Tower of Power (Warner Bros. records). The group with the famed horn section has a funkier sound with Hubert Tubbs replacing the departed Lenny Williams on vocals. An outstanding song is "Treat Me Like Your Man."

"Gratitude" by Earth, Wind and Fire (Columbia records). Three-fourths of this two-record set was recorded live (partially in Chicago) and includes familiar songs, such as "Shining Star." It is a toss-up, though, on whether the live or studio selections are better. This black group which combines soul, rock and jazz gets better with each album as it continues to develop its "big" sound.

'Bodyguard' an engrossing volume of spy adventure

The book stall

"BODYGUARD OF LIES,"
by ANTHONY CAVE BROWN
Harper and Row, $15.95

The public has been reading spy stories for generations without realizing that the best ones were locked away in CIA files and at the offices of British Intelligence.

The British, of course, always did the spy bit with a style and panache that their American counterparts never approached.

They really did have supposedly woolly-brained university dons such as Leslie Howard played in "Pimpernel Smith" who casually performed the most astonishing feats.

An endless array of stories are gathered in this fat, engrossing volume and each one seems more improbable than the next. The "Bodyguard" of the title was layer upon layer of deception to mislead the Germans as to the time and place of the Allied invasion of Europe.

THEN THERE was the decoding machine, invented by one of those British eccentrics, which permitted the interception of coded German wireless communications, a coup that likely changed the direction of World War II.

The book adds a footnote to the well known story of the actor who impersonated Gen. Bernard Montgomery, one of the ploys designed to divert German attention to the Mediterranean as an invasion target. The actor, an enlisted man, continued to receive a general's pay after the impersonation ended.

"Bodyguard of Lies" is written in straight journalese, with no pretentions other than to entertain, which it does admirably and consistently.

"PLANT AND PLANET,"
by ANTHONY HUXLEY
Viking, $14.95

Anthony Julian Huxley knows as much about plants in all their aspects as anyone alive and has packed an incredible amount of information into this 385-page book, originally published in Britain in 1974.

Like his famous father, Sir Julian Huxley, he wears his erudition lightly, and "Plant and Planet" is a highly readable work for nature lovers, gardeners, agriculturists and ecologists alike.

At first, you feel the lack of illustrations. There are only general engravings as chapter headings, which the author justifies by pointing out that adequate illustrations would make the book prohibitive in price or too much like a textbook. And how right he proves.

Huxley loves plants, and a little basic knowledge of botany and a little imagination on the part of the reader are all he needs to become riveted by the extraordinary wonders of nature.

THIS IS A book to keep on that special shelf reserved for well-thumbed volumes which you can take down for a half hour of pleasure at any time.

Huxley provides a basic introduction into the history, structure and growth of plants, always giving examples of the basic plant and also of its multitudinous variations. He then expands into plant methods of adaptation, feeding, communication, protection, sex habits and their value to and exploitation by man.

The five most fascinating of the 30 chapters concern the inter-relation of man and plant, past, present and future. His own personal interest is in wild plants, where the future looks bleak with at least 20,000 species likely to become extinct within the next century.

His picture of a science-fiction future of increased production and renewal of arid lands is a combination of optimistic possibility and of dire trolled population growth and uncontrolled exploitation.

Aretha Franklin's 'You' like breath of spring

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Aretha Franklin's new album, "You" (Atlantic records), is a welcome breath of spring from its warm cover to the mighty fine music inside.

Particularly on a series of fine, torch ballads, she recaptures the power and emotion with which she electrified audiences nearly a decade ago. The new "I'm Not Strong Enough to Love You Again" is every bit as fine as her classic "I Never Loved a Man (the Way I Love You)" of 1967 or similar hits of that period.

Other strong ballads in the new album are "You," Van McCoy's "Walk Softly" and "As Long As You Are There."

Two fine rockers help to round out this outstanding collection. Her own song and hit single, "Mr. D.J. (5 For the D.J.)," gives her the chance to do some of her best, controlled shouting and "You Make My Life" appears a natural for the disco markets.

Among those responsible for the album's success are arranger Gene Page and long-time producer Jerry Wexler, who share the duty with Franklin.

OTHER NEW soul releases include:

"City of Angels" by the Miracles (Tamla records). Group newcomer Billy Griffin and veteran Pete Moore co-authored this concept album. The result is predictably fine. With good writing, singing and music. Most of the songs can stand on their own, too.

The plot concerns a country boy named Michael who comes to Los Angeles to find his former girl friend and becomes a singing star after he arrives. "Ain't Nobody Straight in L.A." is about homosexuality, one of several songs that deal with aspects of life in the city.

"House Party" by the Temptations (Gordy records). For the second straight album, the Temps use a variety of producers to good advantage. Outstanding songs are "It's Just a Matter of Time," "What You Need Most" and "If I don't Love You This Way" (an excellent potential single).

There also are two powerful story-songs, such as the group pioneered with "Papa Was a Rolling Stone." "Ways of a Grown-Up Man" is about a boy who moves to the city, leaving his mother, and "Johnny Porter" is about a young murderer on the run.

"HIGH ON YOU" by Sly Stone (Epic records). Sly offers the expected degrees of funk but also some ballads, one of which, at least, is a failure. The title song and "Crossword Puzzle" are the best in this seemingly transitional album. Some of Sly's lyrics deal with drugs and premarital sex but take no stand. Too, while much of the writing may appear gloomy, he says he can find security in his family ("My World").

"In the Slot" by Tower of Power (Warner Bros. records). The group with the famed horn section has a funkier sound with Hubert Tubbs replacing the departed Lenny Williams on vocals. An outstanding song is "Treat Me Like Your Man."

"Gratitude" by Earth, Wind and Fire (Columbia records). Three-fourths of this two-record set was recorded live (partially in Chicago) and includes familiar songs, such as "Shining Star." It is a toss-up, though, on whether the live or studio selections are better. This black group which combines soul, rock and jazz gets better with each album as it continues to develop its "big" sound.

'Bodyguard' an engrossing volume of spy adventure

The book stall

"BODYGUARD OF LIES,"
by ANTHONY CAVE BROWN
Harper and Row, $15.95

The public has been reading spy stories for generations without realizing that the best ones were locked away in CIA files and at the offices of British Intelligence.

The British, of course, always did the spy bit with a style and panache that their American counterparts never approached.

They really did have supposedly woolly-brained university dons such as Leslie Howard played in "Pimpernel Smith" who casually performed the most astonishing feats.

An endless array of stories are gathered in this fat, engrossing volume and each one seems more improbable than the next. The "Bodyguard" of the title was layer upon layer of deception to mislead the Germans as to the time and place of the Allied invasion of Europe.

THEN THERE was the decoding machine, invented by one of those British eccentrics, which permitted the interception of coded German wireless communications, a coup that likely changed the direction of World War II.

The book adds a footnote to the well known story of the actor who impersonated Gen. Bernard Montgomery, one of the ploys designed to divert German attention to the Mediterranean as an invasion target. The actor, an enlisted man, continued to receive a general's pay after the impersonation ended.

"Bodyguard of Lies" is written in straight journalese, with no pretentions other than to entertain, which it does admirably and consistently.

"PLANT AND PLANET,"
by ANTHONY HUXLEY
Viking, $14.95

Anthony Julian Huxley knows as much about plants in all their aspects as anyone alive and has packed an incredible amount of information into this 385-page book, originally published in Britain in 1974.

Like his famous father, Sir Julian Huxley, he wears his erudition lightly, and "Plant and Planet" is a highly readable work for nature lovers, gardeners, agriculturists and ecologists alike.

At first, you feel the lack of illustrations. There are only general engravings as chapter headings, which the author justifies by pointing out that adequate illustrations would make the book prohibitive in price or too much like a textbook. And how right he proves.

Huxley loves plants, and a little basic knowledge of botany and a little imagination on the part of the reader are all he needs to become riveted by the extraordinary wonders of nature.

THIS IS A book to keep on that special shelf reserved for well-thumbed volumes which you can take down for a half hour of pleasure at any time.

Huxley provides a basic introduction into the history, structure and growth of plants, always giving examples of the basic plant and also of its multitudinous variations. He then expands into plant methods of adaptation, feeding, communication, protection, sex habits and their value to and exploitation by man.

The five most fascinating of the 30 chapters concern the inter-relation of man and plant, past, present and future. His own personal interest is in wild plants, where the future looks bleak with at least 20,000 species likely to become extinct within the next century.

His picture of a science-fiction future of increased production and renewal of arid lands is a combination of optimistic possibility and of dire trolled population growth and uncontrolled exploitation.

Adorn yourself with this

What's red, white and blue and looks as if it might take off your head and fly? Virginia Tiffany's Bicentennial eagle hat, thats what.

This year, in addition to its annual holiday Designer/Craftsmen Market, Countryside Art Center, 414 N. Vail in Arlington Heights, is showing an exhibit entitled "Body Adornment."

Bags, elaborate neckpieces and all sorts of colorful and unusual handspun jackets, skirts and shawls are being featured. If it weren't for the price tags (few items are available for under $50), they'd be nice to own. But one can still admire the craftsmanship that went into each creation. For sure, duplication would be almost impossible.

In addition to the clothing, Countryside is once again offering an extensive line of pottery and wall hangings. Pots for planting and hanging and those made to just show off on a table.

Are you ears cold? Several handwoven wool hats are for sale. Pillows, too. And if you're just looking for an unusual Christmas ornament, you can find that at Countryside. A special attraction each year is the Center's Christmas tree decked with ornaments and soft art created by members.

Both exhibits run through Jan 9. Hours are 1-5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Information, 253-3005.

Winnie-The-Pooh to star at yule show by Players of Schaumburg

"Winnie-The-Pooh," a play with music dramatized from the stories of A. A. Milne, and the traditional "Visit from Santa Claus" highlight this year's Christmas show by The Players of Schaumburg.

The production will be staged Sundays, Dec. 7, 14 and 21 at 1 and 4 p.m. at Schaumburg Township Library, 32 W. Library Ln., Schaumburg.

Included in each show is the singing of Christmas songs and the presentation to each child in the audience of a gift from Santa and the "Pooh" cast.

"WINNIE-THE-POOH" will include the stories of Pooh's Search for Honey, Piglet's Bath, Kanga's Visit to the Forest and Pooh's Birthday Party.

Directed by Sonja Leraas and choreographed by Linda Watters, the play features Lawrence Nepodahl, Elk Grove Village, as Christopher Robin; Rick Rasinski, Roselle, as Winnie-The-Pooh; Cindy Reynolds, Elk Grove, Piglet; Jamie Hammer, Elgin, Owel; Larry Northway, Glendale Heights, as Eeyore, the donkey.

Also Colleen Thompson, Hoffman Estates, as Kanga, the Mama Kangaroo; Linda Watters, Hanover Park, as Kanga's child, Roo; Pat Gegethoff, Schaumburg, Auntie Rabbit; Diane Tegethoff and Mary Crandall, Roselle, Little Rabbits; and Dan Dutchak, Hanover Park, the narrator.

THE CAST members, assisted by Monti Leraas of Schaumburg and Marilyn Howitz of Palatine, are also responsible for the preparation and presentation of the Santa Claus segment.

Admission is $1.50 for children under 10, $2.50 for others. Group rates offering a 10 per cent discount are also available, and reservations, which are recommended, can be made by calling 593-8338. Tickets will be sold at the box office prior to each performance on a first come, first serve basis.

WINNIE-THE-POOH comes up laughing at play with Eeyore and the rabbits in The Players of Schaumburg's Christmas show to be given Sundays, Dec. 7, 14 and 21 at 1 and 4 p.m. at Schaumburg Township Library. Pictured are Larry Northway, Rick Rasinski, Pat and Diane Tegethoff and Mary Crandall. The Pooh stories set to music and a visit from Santa make up the children's show.

DPTG to conduct stagecraft seminars, acting classes for adults, children

Acting classes for adults, teenagers and children plus a technical seminar for those who want to learn sound, lighting and stagecraft will be given at Guild Playhouse in the coming months as Des Plaines Theater Guild launches three separate workshops.

Beginning Dec. 10, the Adult Acting Workshop under direction of J. Neil Boyle of DPTG will meet for 10 two-hour sessions Wednesdays from 8 to 10 p.m. The course extends to March 3 due to a two-week break for the holidays and skipping Jan. 21 to avoid conflicting with the membership meeting of the community theater group.

Enrollment in the workshop is limited, with preference given to DPTG members. No fee will be charged those who have paid current dues. Non-members are welcome, as space permits, for a donation of $1.50 per session.

STARTING IN January, 12 Saturday afternoon acting classes for children will be held at Guild Playhouse, conducted by Joel and Maxine Cohen of Niles. The workshop for boys and girls ages 6 to 11 will meet from 1 to 2 p.m., while teens 12 to 17 will meet from 2 to 3 p.m.

Fee for children of DPTG members is $3, with additional children of the same family in the same session admitted for half price. Children of non-members pay $6, with the same discount allowed for others in the same session.

At the end of the 12-week session of Children's Theatre, each class will present a play, "The Trial of Mother Goose" and "The Great Contest" planned for presentation in April.

A THIRD WORKSHOP will be a technical seminar for those wishing to brush up or learn from scratch the many behind-the-scenes positions that go into a successful stage production. Marshall Kievit of Des Plaines, chairman of the Guild's technical committee, will conduct these sessions.

The Guild Playhouse is located at 620 Lee St., Des Plaines. Persons interested in any of the workshops may call 296-1211 between noon and 8 p.m. for details.

'Trim A Tree' contest at Plaza

Mount Prospect Plaza merchants will sponsor a "Trim A Tree" contest at the shopping center Saturday, Dec. 6. All types of groups, youth and adults, may participate.

Reservations for a tree will be made in advance on a first-come basis until all the trees have been taken. Trees approximately 6 to 7 feet tall will be set up in the planting areas of the plaza and should be decorated Dec. 6 between 10 a.m. and noon. All decorations should be handmade and of weatherproof materials.

Each group will receive a $5 award upon completion of decorating. A $25 prize goes to the group judged as having the most beautiful tree. Participants will be treated to refreshments after the tree trimming.

Reservations should be made with Adele Jeschke, 255-0644.

Changes from novel do not detract

'Cuckoo's Nest' a fine movie

by WANDALYN RICE

Last Christmas, during a trip to my native state of Oregon, I talked to a college friend and her family about a project they had become involved with — making a movie starring Jack Nicholson.

The movie was being produced by Michael Douglas, son of actor Kirk Douglas, and would be the first attempt to make a film of Oregonian Ken Kesey's novel "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

What made the project seem remarkable at the time was that even though the book presented a story that was unflattering in the extreme to mental hospitals, my friend's father, Dr. Dean K. Brooks, head of the Oregon State Mental Hospital, was willing to have the film made on the hospital grounds.

Well, the film was completed, and Dr. Brooks played the key role of Dr. Spivey, the psychiatrist whose role is to be befuddled by R. P. McMurphy, the character played by Nicholson.

Jack Nicholson

NOT ONLY WAS the movie completed, but, as proved by a recent screening, it is a remarkable and fine film that manages to be at different times funny, moving and horrifying.

Anyone who has read Kesey's book or has seen the stage play will realize almost immediately that the film version, while recognizable as the same story, has been changed. The changes do not, however, interfere with the basic strength of the story.

The basic action of "Cuckoo's Nest" occurs in a mental hospital ward where McMurphy (Nicholson) has been transferred while serving time in prison. McMurphy immediately runs up against Nurse Ratched (Big Nurse in the book), who controls the ward through iron discipline and by turning the patients against one another during "therapy" session.

In the book, the action is filtered through the internal dialogue of Chief Bromdon, a 7-foot tall Indian who pretends to be a deaf mute and is in the mental hospital because he believes he is not "big enough" to function outside.

IN THE FILM, this internal dialogue is eliminated, and the result is that, while the Chief is perfectly portrayed by Western artist Will Sampson, his escape from madness as a result of McMurphy's action is not as fully explained as it might be.

There are other subtle changes in emphasis that are bound to be noticed by anyone familiar with the book or the play. In both those media, Kesey's Big Nurse is an impersonal, almost superhuman monster whose identity is at least partly based on the fact that she has no human name.

The film has given this thorughly evil character a name and the form of actress Louise Fletcher, who is too attractive to warrant the title "Big Nurse." As Ms. Fletcher plays her, Nurse Ratched is a cold, rigid bureaucrat but is not the manifestation of evil she was in the book.

THESE CHANGES WILL not interfere with the enjoyment by the average moviegoer who is not intimately familiar with "Cuckoo's Nest," however. The film as a whole is a success, despite such minor quibbles.

And for anyone like me, who knows Dean Brooks, it is a pleasure to watch him in the role of Dr. Spivey. His friends will never see him again as "just" a doctor.

Fine Italian restaurant serves sumptuous feast

If your taste for food should range one night for a bit of many things, take your appetite for a fiesta dinner at Paolella's Rustic Barn Dinner Theater, 251 E. Lake St., Bloomingdale.

Becoming a popular tradition at many of the finer Italian restaurants throughout the Chicago area, the basic fiesta at the Rustic Barn, $6.95 per person, is supplemented with a trip around a giant salad and relish bar which is heavy on the antipasto. Featured the night we dined were such items as spicy pepperuccini peppers and liver pate.

All dinners at the restaurant include salad bar, minestrone or beef stock soup and a separate tossed salad.

Featuring:
Paolella's
Rustic Barn

ONCE THE preliminaries, generous and very tasty, are out of the way, the real fiesta begins.

It's kicked off with the arrival of a lazy susan crammed with a large variety of meats, chicken and pork chops smothered in an Italian sauce. Several pasta dishes including manacoti and ravioli are also part of the fiesta.

Portions were ample, too much in fact for even two hungry eaters, and there was enough variety to suit just about anyone.

I have just one minor complaint. The diner is presented with the formidable task of diving into a large amount of well-prepared food all at once.

It is just too much to eat together. It would be wiser, I feel, to change the serving pattern a bit and bring the entrees in shifts . . . chicken and noodle dishes followed by meatballs, pork chops and pasta items, for instance. The food would stay hot that way, too. Some of the dishes were only lukewarn by the time we could get to them.

FOR DESSERT an assortment of nuts, fruits and cookies were served.

Though noted for its relatively inexpensive fiesta dinner, the Rustic Barn also offers a full menu of other Italian and American cuisine — veal, seafood, chops and steaks. All are reasonably priced with a seven-course feast featuring Italian ravioli as the main entree offered for just over $5.

One would never guess from looking at the elegant decor and cozy seating arrangement that the Rustic Barn was once, just a barn. Though rebuilt in 1933 after a fire, the original building is said to date back 150 years. The silo that makes it easy for motorists to recognize the restaurant has been standing there for years.

Upstairs, where a dinner theater is in operation, was formerly the loft of the barn. Diners have the option of eating in the main dining room and later attending the theater or eating in the theater area itself where reduced dinner-theater package prices are available.

Changes from novel do not detract

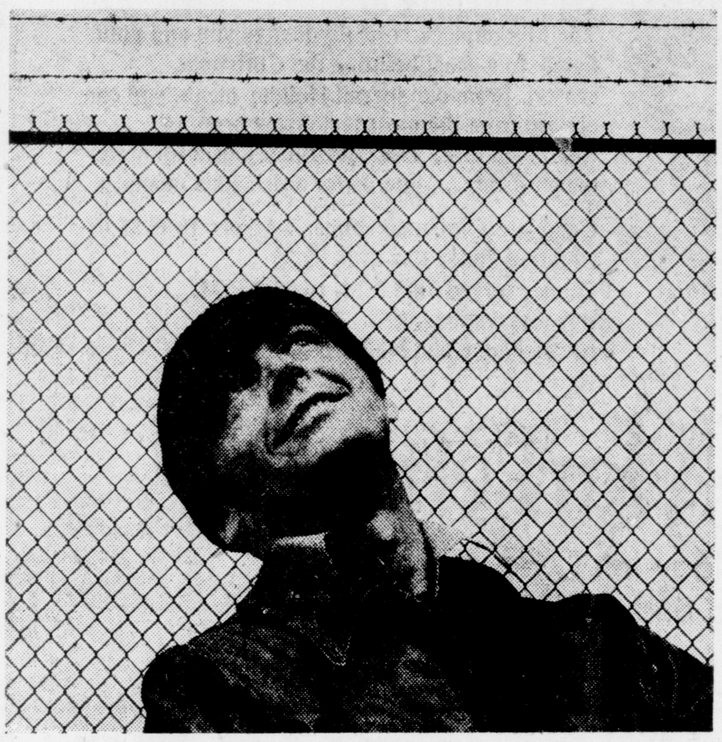
by WANDALYN RICE

Last Christmas, during a trip to my native state of Oregon, I talked to a college friend and her family about a project they had become involved with — making a movie starring Jack Nicholson.

The movie was being produced by Michael Douglas, son of actor Kirk Douglas, and would be the first attempt to make a film of Oregonian Ken Kesey's novel "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

What made the project seem remarkable at the time was that even though the book presented a story that was unflattering in the extreme to mental hospitals, my friend's father, Dr. Dean K. Brooks, head of the Oregon State Mental Hospital, was willing to have the film made on the hospital grounds.

Well, the film was completed, and Dr. Brooks played the key role of Dr. Spivey, the psychiatrist whose role is to be befuddled by R. P. McMurphy, the character played by Nicholson.



Jack Nicholson

NOT ONLY WAS the movie completed, but, as proved by a recent screening, it is a remarkable and fine film that manages to be at different times funny, moving and horrifying.

Anyone who has read Kesey's book or has seen the stage play will realize almost immediately that the film version, while recognizable as the same story, has been changed. The changes do not, however, interfere with the basic strength of the story.

The basic action of "Cuckoo's Nest" occurs in a mental hospital ward where McMurphy (Nicholson) has been transferred while serving time in prison. McMurphy immediately runs up against Nurse Ratched (Big Nurse in the book), who controls the ward through iron discipline and by turning the patients against one another during "therapy" session.

In the book, the action is filtered through the internal dialogue of Chief Bromdon, a 7-foot tall Indian who pretends to be a deaf mute and is in the mental hospital because he believes he is not "big enough" to function outside.

IN THE FILM, this internal dialogue is eliminated, and the result is that, while the Chief is perfectly portrayed by Western artist Will Sampson, his escape from madness as a result of McMurphy's action is not as fully explained as it might be.

There are other subtle changes in emphasis that are bound to be noticed by anyone familiar with the book or the play. In both those media, Kesey's Big Nurse is an impersonal, almost superhuman monster whose identity is at least partly based on the fact that she has no human name.

The film has given this thoroughly evil character a name and the form of actress Louise Fletcher, who is too attractive to warrant the title "Big Nurse." As Ms. Fletcher plays her, Nurse Ratched is a cold, rigid bureaucrat but is not the manifestation of evil she was in the book.

THESE CHANGES WILL not interfere with the enjoyment by the average moviegoer who is not intimately familiar with "Cuckoo's Nest," however. The film as a whole is a success, despite such minor quibbles.

And for anyone like me, who knows Dean Brooks, it is a pleasure to watch him in the role of Dr. Spivey. His friends will never see him again as "just" a doctor.

Fine Italian restaurant serves sumptuous feast

If your taste for food should range one night for a bit of many things, take your appetite for a fiesta dinner at Paolella's Rustic Barn Dinner Theater, 251 E. Lake St., Bloomingdale.

Becoming a popular tradition at many of the finer Italian restaurants throughout the Chicago area, the basic fiesta at the Rustic Barn, $6.95 per person, is supplemented with a trip around a giant salad and relish bar which is heavy on the antipasto. Featured the night we dined were such items as spicy pepperuccini peppers and liver pate.

All dinners at the restaurant include salad bar, minestrone or beef stock soup and a separate tossed salad.

Featuring:
Paolella's
Rustic Barn

ONCE THE preliminaries, generous and very tasty, are out of the way, the real fiesta begins.

It's kicked off with the arrival of a lazy susan crammed with a large variety of meats, chicken and pork chops smothered in an Italian sauce. Several pasta dishes including manacoti and ravioli are also part of the fiesta.

Portions were ample, too much in fact for even two hungry eaters, and there was enough variety to suit just about anyone.

I have just one minor complaint. The diner is presented with the formidable task of diving into a large amount of well-prepared food all at once.

It is just too much to eat together. It would be wiser, I feel, to change the serving pattern a bit and bring the entrees in shifts . . . chicken and noodle dishes followed by meatballs, pork chops and pasta items, for instance. The food would stay hot that way, too. Some of the dishes were only lukewarn by the time we could get to them.

FOR DESSERT an assortment of nuts, fruits and cookies were served.

Though noted for its relatively inexpensive fiesta dinner, the Rustic Barn also offers a full menu of other Italian and American cuisine — veal, seafood, chops and steaks. All are reasonably priced with a seven-course feast featuring Italian ravioli as the main entree offered for just over $5.

One would never guess from looking at the elegant decor and cozy seating arrangement that the Rustic Barn was once, just a barn. Though rebuilt in 1933 after a fire, the original building is said to date back 150 years. The silo that makes it easy for motorists to recognize the restaurant has been standing there for years.

Upstairs, where a dinner theater is in operation, was formerly the loft of the barn. Diners have the option of eating in the main dining room and later attending the theater or eating in the theater area itself where reduced dinner-theater package prices are available.

Something absurd afoot

It required three people, James McDonald, David Vos and Robert Gerlach, to invent the story line, music and lyrics to "SOMETHING'S AFOOT." And no wonder.

If you could put an old-fashioned melodrama, farce, musical and murder mystery into an electric blender and turn it on, you just might have an idea of what's currently happening on stage at the CHATEAU MYSTERIE THEATRE.

Think you're being taken? You're absolutely right. But leastways the cast, directed by JEANNE BOLAN, plays this show campy enough to lessen the blow. And with people being knocked off by falling chandeliers, poisonous darts and spears that fall and strangle unsuspecting guests by their neck scarves, the play moves right along in spite of itself.

I could say all kinds of things about musicals that shouldn't be, because songs and lyrics are absolutely without merit. But I won't waste the space. "Something's Afoot" highlights such inspiring numbers as "The Man With the Ginger Moustache," "I Don't Know Why I Trust You (But I Do)" sung to "I Don't Know Why I Love You (But I Do)" and "A Marvelous Weekend" which goes like this . . . "I love this house."

The second act offers "You Fell Out of the Sky" and my favorite of all, "Teeny Little Dinghy," sung by PETER BAILEY BRITTON as Flint the gripper (he gooses all the ladies) and HOPE HOMMERSAND as Lettie the scatter-brained maid.

And just when you think they can't possibly throw anything else in, the three-piece band strikes up for SUSAN GORDON-CLARK to do a tap dance. (The lucky girl also gets to sing "I love this house.")

The best line of the show is "Tweedy, that ol' ninny, was your nanny" spoken by Mr. Athlete, MARK BARTOS, whom we first meet with the letter on his shirt running, having just come out of the rain. And that old nanny is MARTHA WEBSTER, who always seems to command a front seat in any show she does.

I can't say I liked "Something's Afoot" and I can't say I really didn't. I just know the whole evening was absurd.

Night out

DAVE MAJOR AND THE MINORS join comedienne RUSTY WARREN in reopening MANGAM'S CHATEAU in Lyons next Friday, Dec. 5. The 40-year-old night-life landmark, recently purchased by Jim Spentzos, owner of the Pickwick House Supper Club in Palatine, is currently being remodeled. Dave Major and the Minors will appear next Friday and Saturday only. Rusty Warren will perform Dec. 5-14. The BRUCE ROBINS TRIO is also featured.

MICKEY ROONEY will star in the Woody Kling and Robert J. Hilliard comedy about divorce and alimony payments, "THREE GOATS AND A BLANKET," beginning Thursday and running through Feb. 8 at DRURY LANE EAST in McCormick Place. The production marks the first anniversary of Drury Lane East which opened Dec. 4, 1974, with Ginger Rogers in "Forty Carats."

JAMES DARREN opens tonight in the BLUE MAX of the HYATT REGENCY O'HARE. He is appearing with comedian BILLY FALBO through Dec. 20.

Museum exhibit shames man on wasteful ways

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

The irony is about as subtle as a sledgehammer.

The scene is the Man in His Environment exhibit at the Field Museum of Natural History. It is a startlingly compelling presentation of an all-too-familiar subject.

The multi-media experience unfolds with the story of nature: the flow of energy through the food chain, the cycle of life, the balance of nature maintained through predators and parasites. A simulated marsh and a film present the beauty, the awareness, the violence of untouched nature.

And then, man is introduced. His interaction with the natural world is briefly traced from the stone age to the present and capped with a second film unmerciful in its frankness.

THERE ARE THE usual sequences showing man laying waste to his envoronment — spraying pesticides, strip mining, polluting the air with factories and autos — and laying waste to himself through overpopulation — a large family reunion in the U.S. and starving people in Africa.

A most shocking and uncomfortable parallel is drawn between the balance of nature brutally maintained among animals — and a similar Malthusian control which the movie predicts will happen to human beings if they don't begin controlling their own numbers.

As alternatives, the film runs through mind-boggling footage on existing computer technology which might be used by governments to dictate who may have a baby and who may not, as well as existing energy technology which could be harnessed to conserve the earth's resources.

Tying all of this together is a recurring scene of a large group of people seated at a long picnic table. The table is littered with aluminum pop and beer cans and paper plates, paper napkins, etc. At the end, some children remove the piles of refuse into plastic garbage bags.

A VERY STARK statement accompanies this last scene: "Anything used only once is a waste."

In stunned silence one exits the display area — passing a plaque on the wall crediting the financial sponsors of the project.

The first name listed is Ray Kroc, McDonald's hamburger magnate.

In 1973 McDonald's used approximately 1.5 million trees to wrap its hamburgers and french fries in paper.

That figure might be slightly changed now because McDonald's has stopped using a paper box for its Big Mac and instead is using a polystyrene container — which is a petroleum product and is nonbiodergradable.

One would hope that donors as well as viewers will learn something from this very worthwhile and provocative presentation on our world because, in the words of Alan Paton in "Cry, the Beloved Country," — "Destroy it and man is destroyed."

Museum hours are Saturday through Thursday, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Friday until 9 p.m. Admission: $1 for adults, 35 cents for children, students and senior citizens. The museum is located on South Lake Shore Drive at Roosevelt Road, Chicago.

Mime-clown Dimitri will stage four performances at the Dance Center of Columbia College Dec. 11-14 as part of his first American tour.

Dimitri's appearance is the third of seven programs in the Dance Chicago 1" season, the first full season of dance-related events at the Dance Center, 4730 N. Sheridan Rd., Chicago.

A winner of the Grock Prize, the international "Oscar" for circus comedians, Dimitri has his own theater in Europe which opened in 1971. He has also performed as a member of the Marcel Marceau troupe.

During his first one-man show in the U.S., Dimitri is appearing in New York, Washington, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Detroit and Aspen.

OTHER DANCE programs at the Dance Center include two evenings of films narrated by dance columnist John Mueller. The films are scheduled for Feb. 20 and 21.

Nana Shineflug's Chicago Moving Co. is scheduled to perform Mar. 19-21, Mordine & Co. will appear April 22-24 and April 29-May 1, and the Chicago premiere of Dance Works Inc. is scheduled for June 4 and 5.

Suggested donations for Dimitri's performance are $5 for adults and $4 for students, senior citizens and groups of 20 or more. Further information is available by calling the Dance Center at 271-7804.

Chicago Ballet to stage gala

The Chicago Ballet will present its first anniversary gala this weekend, featuring four dancers from the City Center Joffrey Ballet.

Rebecca Wright and Kevin McKenzie will perform a pas de deux from Arpino's "Kettentanz," while Kirk Peterson and Christine Knoblach will dance in the "Harliquinade Pas de Deux."

Also to be performed are Bournonville's "Napoli Pas de Six" staged by Erik Bruhn and Act 3 of Stevenson's "The Sleeping Beauty."

Performances are at 8 o'clock tonight and Saturday with matinees at 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Tickets are $7 for all except the Saturday matinee, which costs $5.50. Further information is available by calling 337-6539 or at the box office at 1016 N. Dearborn St., Chicago.

LORD LAURENCE Olivier a murderous type? He is in a new film, "Marathon Man." In this scene Olivier, left, has just slashed a man's throat and is checking the result. He plays "one of the world's most wanted war criminals" in this Paramount film being directed by John Schlesinger on location in New York.
